Strangler Eyraud Atones for Gouffe's Murder.

Scenes About the Guillotine in the Place de la Roquette.

A Howling Mob Demands the Head of Gabrille's Paramour.

The Condemned Man Dies Stoically, and Denounces Constans With His Last Breath—A Dramatic Event.

By Telegraph to The Times.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] Michael Eyraud, the murderer of Notary B. Gouffe, was guillotined at 7:20 this morning. Eyraud met his fate with fortitude and resignation. When the governor of the prison La Roquette and the prison chaplain, L'Abbe Baure, were ushered into Eyraud's cell a short time previous to the hour fixed for the condemned man's execution, they found that he was already up and dressed, evidently forewarned, contrary to the rules, by some kind-hearted official. Eyraud declined a glass of cognac, which was tendered him, and in spite of the solicitation of L'Abbe Baure, the murderer positively, even angrily, refused to listen to the priest's prayers, to pray himself, or to have any religious rites performed in his behalf. Eyraud's iron will was not shaken even in the presence of death, and he continued impatiently to refuse religious consolation while on the death march to the guillotine, which had been erected during the night on the Place de la Roquette.

The action of the guillotine, when Eyraud's neck was well beneath the uprights, was instantaneous. There was a flash and all was over. Eyraud's head had fallen into the sawdust-filled receptacle which awaited it. Then followed the usual funeral, and the body of Gouffe's murderer was handed over to his relatives and acquaintances.

AT THE PLACE OF DEATH.

As early as 2 o'clock this morning the customary barriers were erected upon the Place de la Roquette. Shortly afterward two divisions of police and a detachment of the Garde Republicaine took possession of the place. To make the scene more gloomy than usual, a heavy, damp, cold fog hung over the city. The cafés near the place de la Roquette were full of carousers, male and female, singing in maudlin tones a disgusting song, having for its refrain: "It is Eyraud we must have; it is his head we must have." The scenes in some of the cafés can be better imagined than described, but they gave the stranger a good idea of the nature of a Paris mob when

"BLOOD IS IN THE AIR."

By 5:45 all was ready. Deibler, the executioner, tested the knife and found that it was moving easily in the grooves. Outside the Place in the direction of the Boulevard Voltaire there were about five hundred spectators, who could hardly see anything of the proceedings, but who were attracted to the spot and remained there out of morbid curiosity.

The main crowd particularly referred to was composed of those scoundrels who prey upon fallen women, convicts, gambling-club croupiers of the lowest class, and girls who form the dregs of society.

At 6:45 a. m. a party of officials, in company with the governor of La Roquette, entered the cell occupied by Eyraud. They found him sitting, or

and when informed that the petition for a pardon had been rejected, Eyraud replied "Very well." The condemned man a few minutes afterward removed the prison uniform which he had been wearing and changed his trousers and socks, refusing all assistance while preparing for death. Being asked if he had any statement to make, the murderer replied in the negative. Abbe Faure then approached the guilty man and offered to receive and convey to Eyraud's wife and daughter any message which he might wish taken to them. To this kind offer Eyraud replied: "Tell them and hope they may be happy."

Abbe Faure then again offered Eyraud a glass of cognac, but he pushed it to one side, saying: "No; that will do me no good," Eyraud then walked with the chief warden and jailer into the dressing-room. He looked attentively at the gentlemen there present and did not utter a word. He then sat down while Deibler pinioned him, and during this part of the preparation for the guillotine Eyraud turned to the governor and said: "Might I request that my body should not be given to the surgeons?" To this request Abbe Faure replied: "Your body will be given to your family."

Eyraud thanked the abbe, whereupon the latter offered to embrace the murderer's wife and child for him. Eyraud gazed at the faces around him, then angrily exclaimed: "Minister of the Interior

he has won his case, now his prize. He will be tonight with Gabrielle. What grand personage is going to decorate Gabrielle Bomparde?" Suddenly, as Deibler was completing the task of pinioning him, Eyraud continued, "You are hurting my finger," and turning to the assistant, who was tying the bandages, he said, impatiently, "Don't pinch me so tightly."

Previous to commencing the march to the scaffold, Eyraud again refused to drink a glass of cognac which was offered him, and was afterwards rigidly silent till he arrived at the guillotine.

Passing from the cell to the scaffold Eyraud scanned everything right and left, and then fixed his eyes upon the guillotine. Arrived at the foot of the guillotine and within a few feet of the block, Eyraud eluded his executioners for a moment, and loudly and angrily shouted to the assembled crowd:

"CONSTANS IS A MURDERER; he is more of a murderer than I am. Constans is——"

Before he could complete the sentence the executioner seized the murderer and threw him upon the inclined plank of the guillotine. Deibler pressed the fatatal knob and the flashing blade fell with a sharp, sliding sound, and the head of Gouffe's assassin rolled into the basket below.

Eyraud's body was then lifted into a wagon and to the cemetery, escorted by a detachment of gendarmers. Abbe Faure followed the body in a cab, and after reading the burial service over the remains at the cemetery they were turned over to the dead man's relatives.

Immediately after the execution the mob made a wild rush toward the guillotine and were with difficulty repulsed by the strong force of the Gardes Republicaines, which had been left in charge of that instrument of execution.

RECENT HAPPENINGS IN LANDS BEYOND THE PACIFIC.

Great Depression in the Chinese Silk Trade—Serious Earthquakes in the Island of Java—Several Killed.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—[By the Associated Press.] The steamer Gaelic arrived today from Hong Kong and Yokohama, bringing the following news. Sir Edwin and Miss Arnold left Kobe on the 12th inst. for Europe direct on the P. and O. steamer Verona.

Peking is suffering from a severe epidemic of influenza.

Sixty-four silk dealers met at Kansgawa, January 12, to devise some means of rescuing the silk trade from the present condition of utter stagnation. They decided to petition Parliament for a loan of $2,500,000 to enable the company to export silk direct to foreign countries.

The court of inquiry on the burning of the steamer Shanghai, in which over two hundred lives were lost, finds that every possible effort was made by the captain and crew, and that no one is to blame for the disaster or its consequence.

Count Ito is to visit China soon in the interest of the Japanese in Corea. Their position is growing very uncomfortable and bloodshed is expected.

The Jiji Shimpo says that the silk trade is in a very hard way. Last year the loss to the merchants was over $25,000,000 and according to present appearances the losses will continue for some time yet.

Things are in a bad way in Siam, the Mercantile Gazette says, owing to the failure of the rice crop. It adds: "Unless efficient measures are taken to meet the emergency, rebellion and riot by the starving unemployed, followed by epidemics, will surely be the order of the day."

A serious earthquake took place in Java on December 12. The town of Joana suffered most. The Chinese quarter was was entirely wrecked and the European section rendered almost uninhabitable. Twelve persons were killed and seventeen injured. All districts of West and Middle Java suffered more or less, some severely.

Mr. Tomlinson, chief engineer of the Gaelic, fell overboad from a vessel in the harbor of Yokohama, and struck his skull on some floating object, badly fracturing it. He died on the way up, January 27, and his body was brought to this port.

THE MYSTERY CLEARED.

An Old Man Confesses to the Murder of His Adopted Daughter.

LANSING, (Mich.,) Feb. 3.—[By the Associated Press.] The mystery surrounding the death of the young girl whose body was found in Grand River near Dimondale, Friday last, was cleared up this morning. The first clew to the crime was when the body was identified by a Lake Shore conductor as that of a passenger on his train who was accompanied by an old man. The officials of the State Public School at Coldwater identified the body as that of Nellie Griffin, who had been adopted a few days previous by an old man giving the name of Hendershot. Active search was instituted for the old man, and he was located early this morning on a farm near Dimondale, where he was employed. His real name was found to be Russell C. Canfield.

After being fully identified by the superintendent of the Coldwater school he was arrested and taken to Charlotte. He broke down and confessed. He said that upon ar

CRAZY MAN'S FREAK.

He Makes Violent Love to a School Mistress.

Miss Melvie Jones, one of the teachers of the Garvanza school had quite an experience Monday, which she will not soon forget.

In the afternoon a man named I Kean visited the schoolroom. When he had entered he extended his hand, and Miss Jones desiring to extend to him a friendly greeting, gave hers. As soon as he had secured it, Kean looked wildly into Miss Jones's face and said:

"You are to be my wife. I had a dream last night and God Almighty came to me and gave you to me for a wife."

Miss Jones was very much surprised at this strange and remarkable outburst. She did not know what to say but finally replied with the words:

"Oh! no. It cannot be."

"Yes; well, it must be," was the reply of the crazy individual.

Finally Kean left the schoolroom after some further parleying with Miss Jones and visited her mother, whom he also informed about the dream he had had in which God had given him her daughter for a wife.

Mrs. Jones tried to persuade Kean that it could not be, but the latter insisted that it must be or he would kill the girl.

This alarmed Mrs. Jones very much and some friends were informed of Kean's threat, for the purpose of having them take steps to have him placed under proper restraint. This had been done, however, before papers could be sworn out. It seems that Kean had been disporting himself in some of his crazy moods while at Pasadena.

THIRTY YEARS' PRACTICE.

A Letter from an Eminent Physician.

MR. EDITOR: At the risk of indorsing a proprietary preparation, I have a few words in favor of a new laxative principle. But first, how I came to discover it. A patient asked about taking Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. As sarsaparillas usually contain mercury or iodides I objected, and asked for the formula, which finding purely vegetable, and so mild as to be to my mind almost inert, I consented. Imagine my astonishment when perfect laxative action was reported. It has two great points. First, being purely vegetable, it is (unlike mercury) not cumulative in the system, being easily carried off by the digestive processes; and second, it is effective with a less quantity of the cathartic principle than has hitherto been attainable. It in this respect ranks as a discovery, and approaches the ideal, viz.: the least medicine consistent with the greatest good. As people take laxatives indiscriminately, it is important for them to know at least one that is safe for continuous use; hence this communication. The natural laxative effects of this preparation must, for the reasons above, interest both the public and the profession.

THE CITY'S FUNDS.

The Treasurer the Custodian of the Money.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

The Supreme Court Decides That the Funds Cannot Pass Into the Control of a Private Corporation.

By the highest court in the State, another important provision of the city charter has been held to be unconstitutional, null and void. An opinion has just been given by the State Supreme Court in the case of Jesse Yarnell against the City of Los Angeles, which declares that the provisions of the charter providing for the deposit of the city funds in banks where they will draw interest which is to accrue to the city, is in conflict with the Constitution and therefore void.

From time immemorial it had, until about a year ago, been the custom to deposit the city money in the local banks where it drew no interest. Mayor Hazard concluded that it would be a good idea to have the money deposited where it would draw interest as provided for in the charter. Bids were accordingly advertised for and the bid of the City Bank being the highest it was made the city depository, paying 4½ per cent. interest on daily balances.

Then Jesse Yarnell, one of the stockholders in the California Bank, where City Treasurer Johnson had been depositing a portion of the city funds, petitioned the Superior Court for an injunction restraining the city from placing the funds in the City Bank. Superior Judge Van Dyke sustained a demurrer to the petition. The case was thereupon appealed to the Supreme Court with the result that the judgment of the lower court is reversed and the contract between the city and the City Bank is declared illegal. Following is the decision in full:

THE DECISION.

This is an action brought by a resident and tax-payer against the city of Los Angeles, M. D. Johnson, Treasurer of said city, and the City Bank, a private corporation. The purpose of the action is to enjoin the said Treasurer from depositing the public moneys of the city with said bank, pursuant to a certain contract between the city and said bank. Defendants filed a general demurrer "that said complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action." An answer and supplemental answer were filed, together with some affidavits, and the case was submitted. Subsequently the court rendered a decision, by which it was "ordered, adjudged and decreed that the demurrer to the complaint be sustained," that plaintiff was not entitled to the injunction, that the order to show cause be discharged and the action dismissed, and that defendants recover their costs. Plaintiff appeals from the judgment, and it is clear that the appeal turns upon the sufficiency of the complaint and the correctness of the decision of the court upon the demurrer. Upon the face of the complaint appear the following facts:

The city of Los Angeles is a municipal corporation existing under what is generally called a "freeholders' charter," formed in pursuance of the amendment of section 8 of article XI of the State Constitution, approved March 10, 1887, (Stats 1887, p. 88.) The charter was approved by the Senate and the Assembly on January 31, 1889. Section 44 of the charter provides, among other things (in brief) that it shall be the duty of the city clerk on a certain day of January in each year to advertise for sealed proposals from banks of deposit as to terms upon which they will "receive and disburse the public moneys of said city." The proposals are to specify the rate of interest, estimated upon daily balances which the bank will allow on the public moneys deposited; and "the bank offering the highest rate of interest shall be appointed the depository of public moneys." After it is ascertained who is the highest bidder, the Council is to enter into a contract with the bank, providing that the latter shall pay "all warrants drawn upon the City Treasurer" so long as there is city money in the bank to meet the warrants on the various funds. Provision is made for a bond to be given by the bank. "Upon approval of such bond and the signing of such contract the Council shall direct the City Treasurer to deposit each day, when such bank is open for transaction of business, with the bank thus selected all public moneys of said city by him collected or received. For each such deposit the Treasurer shall take the receipt of the bank and from and after the deposit of such money in said bank the Treasurer and his bondsmen shall no longer be liable therefor."

Under this section of the charter the city made the kind of contract provided for therein with the defendant the City Bank and the defendant Jonnson, Treasurer, was under such contract about to deposit the public money in said bank when this action was commenced. The question presented is whether or not the provisions of said section 44 of the charter are constitutional and valid.

Section 6 of article XI of the Constitution provides that "cities and towns heretofore or hereafter organized and all charters thereof framed or adopted by authority of this Constitution shall be subject to and controlled by general laws;" and the amendment to section 8 of article XI under which the Los Angeles charter was framed, provides that certain cities may frame charters for their own government "consistent with and subject to the Constitution and laws of the State." If, therefore, the provisions above stated, of said section 44 of the charter in question, are inconsistent either with the Constitution, or with any law which is "general" in the sense in which it is used in the clauses above quoted, then they are invalid and void. And we

COURT NEWS.

Bedwell Secures Another Continuance of His Case.

THE CRUMB-CALVERT SCANDAL.

Examination of the Parties on a Charge of Adultery—Angel del Monte on Trial—New Cases.

The case against J. F. Bedwell, charged with falsely impersonating another in the person of P. E. King, came on for trial in Department One yesterday. Bedwell was present in court and asked for a continuance. He said that his attorney, J. M. Damron was in jail and was unable to prepare for his defense, and he himself had been in jail also. Bedwell got fresh in addressing the Court and tried to talk while the Judge was addressing him. For this he was sharply reprimanded. H. H. Appel volunteered finally to act as Bedwell's counsel. An affidavit for a continuance was prepared and granted by the court until February 11.

CRUMB-CALVERT.

The entire time in Justice Owens's court yesterday afternoon was taken up with the examination of William Crumb charged with the crime of adultry, committed with Mrs. Nannie Calvert. Briefly stated, the facts of the case are that for some time past, Crumb's relations with Mrs. Calvert have been suspected as being entirely too intimate, and several nights ago the husband of Mrs. Calvert and the wife of Crumb caught the pair in a Main-street lodging-house under circumstances that left no room for doubt as to their guilt, whereupon Calvert swore to a complaint charging both Crumb and his wife with the crime of adultery. They were arrested and have since been in jail, having been unable to furnish bail.

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon all the parties were in court. Mrs. Calvert had her child with her and occupied a seat by her paramour. She was accompanied by her sister, who assisted in the care of the child. Mrs. Crumb was also in court, with one or two of her lady friends, besides which there were several female witnesses and a large number of spectators.

The evidence was rather commonplace. It was shown that Crumb and the Calvert woman had occupied a room in a Spring-street lodging-house for a week together, and it was also shown that they had been detected in a compromising position in the Main-street house. The State succeeded in making out a clear case, in the face of a number of adverse circumstances.

As one or two material witnesses seemed determ ned to keep back everything possible, besides which the prosecuting attorney was out-classed by the array of legal talent for the defense, who had the advantage of him in numbers as well as experience.

From the course of the defense it appeared as though they were trying to show that there had never been any marriage ceremony performed between Crumb and his wife, and the spectators were treated to the spectacle of a man trying to disgrace his innocent children by casting a slur on their mother, in order to get out of a disreputable position in which he had placed himself.

The case will be continued this morning, when District Attorney McLachlan will probably be on hand to direct his assistant.

At the adjournment of court the attorneys for the defense announced th t they were prepared to furnish bonds for the woman, which were filed, and the woman was allowed to go to her home. Her paramour, however, was sent to the jail for the night.

Court Notes.

No complaints were issued by the District Attorney yesterday.

The trial of Angel del Monte on a charge of committing an assault upon E. Corrierri, with intent to commit murder, was commenced in Department Six before Judge Shaw and a jury yesterday. The alleged offense was committed at San Gabriel on October 29, last. A jury was impaneled and the taking of testimony commenced. The defense is that the prisoner was laboring under a fit of temporary insanity at the time the offense was committed. The case was not concluded.

John Davis was on trial in the United States District Court yesterday on a charge of obstructing a settlement on Government land. The evidence as presented to the jury resulted in a conviction after about a half hour's deliberation.

Lockwood is still at the County Jail. He has not been able to give bail.

The celebrated suit of Jarndyce vs. Jarndyce was nowhere when it comes to long-drawn-out tedious length compared with the suit of the San Pedro Lumber Company against Merrick Reynolds, which is still on trial in Department Two of the Superior Court. The time when the suit will close is uncertain. It has been occupying the attention of the court for a solid two weeks.

The condition of Superior Judge Van Dyke was somewhat improved yesterday.

The Rose bunco case comes up in Department One today. It will probably be continued.

The members of the bar find that it is not as easy a matter to secure a continuance of a criminal case in Department One now as it was. Good and sufficient reasons must be given before Judge Smith will delay a criminal prosecution.

New Cases.

The following new cases were yesterday filed with the County Clerk:

Joseph Hyans sued Theodore Kerner to have a contract carried out.

Romaine L. Wade sued George H. Barlow for $250 and foreclosure of mortgage.

Isabella Thornton sued Mattie Harris and others for $2406 and foreclosure of mortgage.

W. T. and A. D. Childress sued D. W. Saunders and Ralph Rogers for $270 and foreclosure.

Mary A. Snook petitioned to be appointed guardian of Caroline A. Schenck an incompetent.

POOL MATCH.

The Local Man Again Knocks Out the Champion.

James F. Morley, the local pool champion, again defeated Champion James Malone in the closing game of the continuous pool match in Opera Hall last evening. Morley played in excellent form, and although he was receiving a discount from the world's champion, actually discounted him. Malone again played in poor form, and Morley played a better game than the night before. Morley beat Malone last night by a score of 77 to 48. Morley's total score was 152 to Malone's 80. The score by innings was as follows:

Morley—8, 4, 13, 12, 4, 9, 1, 15, 10—total, 77.
Malone—3, 11, 2, 4, 11, 3, 13, 12—total, 48.

A movement has been started by the billiard lovers of the city to present the local champion, Morley with a medal in commemoration of his victory.

THE CITIZENS' DITCH.

The Council Go over the Ground in a Body.

The members of the City Council yesterday went out in a body to the Los Feliz rancho to inspect the supply ditch of the Citizens' Water Company, about which so much complaint has been made. All the Councilmen were present with the exception of Mr. Summerland. Zanjero Dalton and several other city officials were also members of the party. The ditch was inspected along its entire length, as was also the reservoir. It was the unanimous opinion of the Councilmen that something should be done at once. The matter will probably come up at the meeting of the Council this morning, when the matter will be fully discussed, and some measures taken for the immediate relief of the people who are dependent upon this system for their water supply.

GORED BY A BULL.

Death of a Well-known Resident of Los Angeles County.

A resident of Los Angeles county, named Marxen, was fatally gored by a neighbor's vicious bull on Wednesday last, on his ranch, five miles west of town, and died yesterday morning. One of his cows had become entangled in the wire fence separating his property from his neighbor's. He climbed over to free the cow, although warned not to do so by his daughter, when the bull attacked him, tossed him in the air and then repe tedly butted him with its horns. Help was summoned and the sufferer was carried to his bed. His injuries were chiefly internal and after lingering for a week, most of the time in an unconscious condition, he died yesterday.

Mr. Marxen was formerly a prosperous merchant of Davenport, Iowa, but meeting with financial reverses, he came to Los Angeles about thirteen years ago and bought a place of thirty acres on the road from Los Angeles to Santa Monica, where with the aid of his wife and two daughters, he has made a living by raising dairy products, which have been disposed of in this city. He and his estimable family were known to many citizens who regret to learn of the sad loss which has befallen them.

The deceased will be cremated at Rosedale cemetery, tomorrow.

THE SUPERVISORS.

Attorney's Fees for the Sheriff's Office—County Funds.

At a meeting of the Board of Supervisors yesterday, J. C. Kays appeared and requested an allowance of $50 per month for attorneys' fees for the Sheriff's office. The allowance was made as requested.

The report of the County Surveyor upon the grading of Garvanza road was accepted. The demand of F. M. French for grading the same was ordered paid as per contract, less $13.35 for cement pipe not furnished.

D. Freeman and H. Z. Osborne appeared before the board and asked that the sum devoted to the Chicago exhibit be not diverted and given to the Chamber of Commerce as requested on Monday by Messrs. Wells and Germain. The board took no action, taking the matter under advisement for the time.

The District Attorney, the County Auditor and the Chairman of the Board of Supervisors have made their regular monthly examination of the County Treasurer's office and the funds there deposited. The Auditor reports that on the 2d of February there should have been in the treasury, according to his books, $345,572.46. The result of the count by the above three officers showed that there was on hand $273,440 in gold coin, $61,378.71 in silver coin, and $36,000 in currency, making a total of $370,818.71.

B.

An Incident in the Wall Street Depression.

A man wearing a slouch hat, ill fitting clothes and having the general appearance of a countryman entered the office of a prominent Wall street broker.

"Is this here one of the places where you buy stocks?" he asked. He was informed that it was. No one, however, was encouraged by his appearance to make a customer of him. He looked around curiously for several minutes and then said: "Well, I came in from the country to buy some of them cheap stocks. I read in the papers that Jay Gould was buying lots of railroads now, and he's pretty smart, I guess, and I'm going to be with him."

"But you can't buy less than 100 shares at a time," he was told. "All right," he replied: "I guess I can stand it if the rest can."

"We don't take checks on out of town banks," he was again informed. It was thought that would settle the matter.

"Well," he said, "I brought the money along with me."

Then began a wondrous display. Bills, gold and silver coins came out of one pocket after another. Trousers pockets, vest pockets, coat pockets, were all filled with every variety of money. The bills were of a small denomination, and when the farmer had emptied his pockets a large table was covered with money, mostly of very old issue.

"They told me up country that I'd better put money in every pocket, so if them pickpockets got the best of me they'd only get part of my savings. There's just $7,000. Count and see if you don't believe me. Now, you just go and buy some of them stocks old Jay's been buying, and I'll be around in about a month and put my profits in some more of the stocks. I ain't slow, you bet, and I'm in with Gould every time, don't you forget it!"—New York Telegram.

Electricity has not been practically applied in the art of music heretofore except, perhaps, in the operating mechanism of church organs. George Breed, of the United States navy, has devised a method by which the passage of a broken current over a conductor in a magnetic field produces musical notes of varying pitch and volume.

THE CITRUS FAIR.

Counties Preparing for the Special Exhibit.

OFFICIAL ENTRIES SENT IN.

Displays of Oranges From the Coast—Special Railroad and Hotel Rates to Be Secured for Visitors.

Every day brings news to the Citrus Fair management that indicates that for beauty of design and quality of fruit the coming fair will be the best ever held in the State. Ernest Watson of Duarte, was in the city all day yesterday and busy with plans for a building of oranges that will astonish the sight-seers. It will take about 40,000 oranges to finish the design.

San Bernardino county has made an official entry for the county premium, and it is expected that Orange county will make its application Saturday, when a meeting is to be held.

The San Gabriel design is under way and will be a fitting building from that part of the county.

Pomona is getting ready to put in an elaborate display. Rivera has already signified its intention of competing for the premiums for the best locality exhibit, as well as for the first premium for artistic display. Riverside has selected its design, and Redlands will bring in something fine. Ontario has announced its intention of coming to the fair prepared to carry off several prizes.

Displays of oranges grown near the ocean will be in the fair, from Santa Monica and Long Beach.

Arrangements are being made for special rates of fare from all parts of the State, and it is expected that several excursions will come down from the Northern points. Information has already been received, that providing especial rates are made, the hotels will not have rooms enough to accommodate the immense crowd that will be here from northern points.

A meeting will be held at University on Saturday, and at Vernon tomorrow to organize for exhibit purposes.

NICARAGUA CANAL.

The following resolution have been prepared by the Committee on the Nicaragua Canal of the Chamber of Commerce, and will be presented at the next meeting:

Resolved, by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, that any inter-oceanic highway between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, such as the contemplated Nicaragua canal, an enterprise which in the magnitude and importance of the commercial and international interests involved, has commanded and is commanding the attention of all civilized nations, should be under the control of the Government of the United States, rather than under the control of a private corporation or of foreign nation.

That the advantages to be derived by the people of the United States from the construction of such a highway, can scarcely be over-estimated; affecting the redistribution and ownership of the commerce of the world; influencing the political and trade relations of the United States with the other nations of the western hemisphere; facilitating and cheapening the interchange of the products between the Atlantic and Pacific States, and advancing the common military and naval protection of the whole country.

That to secure such a highway and such control, with the resultant additions to the wealth, strength and influence of the United States, will warrant a very large outlay of money on the part of the general Government.

That this expenditure of money by the general Government will carry with it the right to define the conditions under which tolls and charges shall be imposed, and the duty to establish these charges at the lowest practicable and just limit, without which, the full measure of benefit to the people of our country c nnot be secured.

Resolved, that the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce most earnestly prays the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives, in Congress assembled, to enact, at the earliest possible time, such carefully-considered and guarded legislation as will result in the speedy construction of an inter-oceanic highway, controlled by the general Government and operated for the good of the people.

Resolved, that copies of these resolutions, attested by the president and secretary of the chamber, be forwarded to the President of the United States, to the Honorable Secretary of State and to our Senators and Representatives in Congress.

Resolved, that the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce earnestly calls on all affiliated bodies—agricultural, industrial and trade organizations—to join in an earnest request to Congress to thus open to the imports and exports of the Pacific Coast this great highway of commerce, which will cheapen all that we bring in and add a greater net return to all that we send out.

A Cane of Many Parts.

Lawyer A. E. Bragg, of this city, has been presented with a valuable cane, which was made by one of the inmates of the Massachusetts state prison, who has retained Mr. Bragg to represent his interests in a petition for pardon. The cane is quite a curiosity, being composed of 32,500 pieces of tissue paper firmly pressed upon a rod and finished equal to the finest wood. The handle of the cane is mounted with German silver.—Worcester Gazette.

A Turtle Six Feet Long.

Fred Rackliff has captured a large leather back turtle in a river at St. George, which is believed to be the best specimen of that species ever taken in the waters along this coast or within 1,000 miles from here. Where he came from, or how he came to St. George, is a mystery. He is an enormous fellow, over six feet long. He was alive when found, and was killed to prevent him from destroying the weir.—Bangor Commercial.

Looking for Mates.

A sea captain called at a village inn and asked the landlady, a young widow:

"Do you know where I can get a mate? I have lost my mate."

"I am very sorry for you, Mr. ——," she said, smiling. "I want a mate, too, and cannot get one. As we are in the same position I'll tell you what I'll do; if you'll be mine I will be yours!"

He closed with the bargain, and the widow keeping her word he is now supplied with two mates.—London Tit-Bits.

A Careless Habit.

I once had an intelligent young man in my employ who deemed it sufficient excuse for neglecting any important task to say, "I forgot it." I told him that would not answer. If he was sufficiently interested he would be careful to remember. It was because he did not care enough that he forgot it. I drilled him with this truth. He worked for me three years, and during the last of the three he was utterly changed in this respect. He did not forget a thing His forgetting he found was a lazy, careless habit of the mind, which he cured. —American Grocer.

Two Ancient Tombs.

Two mounds of the prehistoric period have been discovered on the isthmus of Corinth by P. Kastromenos, who thinks that they are the tombs of Sisyphus and Nelcus, mentioned by the traveler Pausanias when describing the country subject to the rule of that place.—Boston Transcript.

PEARS' SOAP?

Fathers Way.

[To Wilson Barrett.]

My father was no pessimist; he loved the things of earth—
Its cheerfulness and sunshine, its music and its mirth;
He never sighed or moped around whenever things went wrong—
I warrant me he'd mocked at fate with some defiant song.
But, being he warn't much on tune, whenever times were blue,
He'd whistle softly to himself this only tune he knew:

Now mother, when she learned that tune which father whistled so,
Would say: "There's something wrong today with Ephraim, I know;
He never tries to make believe he's happy that ere way
But that I'm certain as can be some trouble is to pay!"
And so, betimes, quite natural like, to us observant youth
There seemed suggestion in that tune of deep pathetic truth.

When Brother William joined the war a lot of us went down
To see the gallant soldier boys right gayly out of town;
A-comin' home, poor mother cried as if her heart would break—
And all us children, too—for hers, and not for William's sake!
But father, trudgin' on ahead, his hands behind him so,
Kept whistlin' to himself, so sort of solemn like and low.

And when my eldest sister Sue was married and went west,
Seemed like it took the tuck right out of mother and the rest;
She was the sunlight in our home—why, father used to say
It wouldn't seem like home at all if Sue should go away!
Yet when she went, a-leavin' us all sorrow and all tears,
Poor father whistled lonesome like, and went to feed the steers.

When crops were bad, and other ills befell our homely lot,
He'd set around and try to act as if he minded not;
And when came death and bore away the one he worshiped so,
How vainly did his lips belie the heart benumbed with woe!
You see the telltale whistle told a mood he'd not admit—
He'd always quit his whistlin' when he thought we noticed it!

I'd like to see that stooping form and hoary head again—
To see the honest, hearty smile that cheered his fellow men;
Oh, could I kiss the kindly lips that spake no creature wrong,
And share the rapture of that heart that overflowed with song;
Oh, could I hear that little tune he whistled long ago,
When he did battle with the griefs he would not have us know.

London, Oct. 28, 1890. —Eugene Field.

A Father Sues His Son for Wages.

A peculiar suit is on trial in the circuit court. It is that of Sebastian Albrecht against Sebastian Albrecht, Jr. The plaintiff is the father of the defendant, the latter having taken the former to his house about four years ago for the purpose of relieving him of the necessity of doing common labor, for which he was unfitted by reason of old age. This arrangement continued for thirty-two months, when the plaintiff left on account of some disagreement. He now makes claim for wages at the rate of $10 per month, $320 in all.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

A year from next March the railroad now building from Jaffa to Jerusalem will be completed, and tourists will then be whisked away from the coast to Jerusalem in two or three hours, a journey that is now made by camel or in diligences over a horrible road. The money required to build the line is in the hands of Paris bankers, who have just forwarded the second installment of the funds to the contractors.

One of the minor and yet pleasing evidences of the spread of civilization is the increasing use of the portable coal chute in city and country In the city the pedestrian encounters fewer and fewer coal hills, and in the country the old custom of dumping the coal on the ground is gradually falling into disuse wherever chutes can be made available.

The Swiss railways intend to introduce the zone tariff for passengers, now that the system proves so successful in Austro-Hungary During the first year of the zone tariff in Hungary the various lines carried over thirteen million passengers, against some five million during the previous twelvemonth.

CHINO RANCH AND CHINO.

The Site of the Largest Beet Sugar Factory in the United States and the United States Experiment Station.

THE Rancho Land extends to the borders of Pomona and Ontario—places noted for fruit culture, beauty, etc. Much of it is naturally moist and will produce alfalfa, corn, etc., etc., without irrigation. The best artesian water is provided for deciduous and citrus fruit land and underlies many thousands of acres. Excellent well water is abundant on many square miles at from 8 to 25 feet deep. The land is porous, smooth unbroken and ready for the plow.

It is proven chosen sugar beet land. The Oxnard Beet Sugar Company is now constructing here the Largest Beet and Sugar Factory in the United States,

And will complete it next August, so as to work up the crop of this year. The sugar will be refined in Chino ready for market.

Farmers are rapidly entering into contracts to grow beets because of the certainty of the crop and sure cash market at home on delivery to the factory in a few months after planting The crop needs no housing, sacking, boxing or holding for market. With right tillage, the yield is large and profits sure Wherever in Europe or the United States this industry has been established, land has quadrupled in value and the people greatly prospered. Expenses can be made while growing an orchard to bear, by cultivating sugar beets between the rows, as proven at Watsonville.

Lands rented to beet growers for cash or share of the crop. Seed furnished at cost on trust till sale of beets; use of seed drills free; special implements at cost; experienced sugar beet farmer on the ground to freely give correct instructions.

THE law which makes it illegal for city money to be deposited in banks where it will draw interest may be a good law, but it seems to be very poor logic or equity.

AND now some enterprising citizens have laid claim to the ground upon which the National Capitol stands, their claims dating back to 1788. What next? Nothing is sacred to the United States claimant.

A CORRESPONDENT writes to criticise a criticism of Senator Stanford's land-loan scheme, which was reproduced in THE TIMES a few days ago from the Chicago Tribune. Our correspondent evidently labors under the impression that this was a TIMES editorial. However, as we indorse the views expressed by the Tribune, we let that pass. This critic assumes that all money is "fiat" money, gold and silver as well as paper, and asks whether we ever heard or knew of anybody refusing Government greenbacks. No, but under pressure we know of their having gone down to about 60 per cent. of their face value. Under the pressure of Mr. Stanford's impracticable scheme, they would undoubtedly sink much below that, if, indeed, they should not go out of sight altogether.

THE question of having Los Angeles represented in the Food and Health Exposition, to be held in New York next month, has already been referred to in THE TIMES. It is a question which should not be lost sight of. The exposition is to be held under the auspices of the Retail Grocers' Union, a union which numbers amongst its thousands of members some of the richest, respectable, influential and conservative firms, representing individually a capital of between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000. A display of California products would receive the criticism of sound and thorough business men and consumers who would eventually turn into buyers and traders of our products, for the New York grocer is also a dealer in all kinds of fruits, vegetables, nuts, dried fruit, preserves, wines and brandies.

THE OUTLOOK FOR CALIFORNIA VINEYARD PRODUCTS.

We have received a copy of the report of George West, Viticultural Commissioner for the San Joaquin District, which report has been made the subject of much comment, owing to errors in the statistics as at first transmitted and to the rather gloomy view which Mr. West takes of the immediate future of the raisin industry.

The Commissioner says he can see nothing to encourage or stimulate the planting of wine vineyards at present. The market for the past two years has been greatly relieved by the drying of many thousand tons of wine grapes which were sold as dried grapes. A general impression prevailed last season that these grapes were largely used in making wines in the East. In this opinion Mr. West says he does not share as he knows positively that very large quantities were actually sold to take the place of other dried fruits, especially prunes. There will, he says, be a market for this product until supplanted by the muscat, but by that time the quantity now dried will not in any way affect the market when turned into wine.

In regard to sweet wines, Mr. West has the following to say:

The sweet wine industry, developed under the new sweet wine law, will undoubtedly assume large proportions, and the growers are certainly to be congratulated on the bright prospects for good prices and a constantly increasing demand for their products. A very considerable export trade has been built up in the business of shipping California brandies to Europe, which will have a tendency to relieve the market of any surplus and insure good prices.

It is upon the raisin business, however, that the chief interest of the growers of the district represented by Mr. West is centered, and to this industry he devotes the greater portion of his report. It is the pioneer industry of the San Joaquin Valley. The importance of this industry to the State in general, and the San Joaquin Valley in particular, cannot be overestimated. There are now over 2,300 vineyard proprietors in this valley, most of whom are growing raisins. This number will be largely augmented during the present winter. Large tracts of land in all the counties of the valley are being subdivided and sold in tracts of from ten to forty acres, many of which are bought by people who intend settling upon the land purchased and embarking their all in the raisin business.

Here Mr. West introduces a note of warning to those who are thinking of planting raisin grapes. He says:

Whether they will meet with disaster or not time only can tell. But if they are planting with the idea that the present prices will be maintained, they will most unquestionably be disappointed, for the most enthusiastic prophets for the future of the business admit that prices must come down, and there are many of our best informed growers and packers who are now predicting that the raisin business will, in a few years, be in a worse condition than the wine business was in the years 1888 and 1889.

He then gives figures to show that, in the counties of Fresno Tulare, Kern and Merced, the total acres in vineyard are 62,474; acres in wine grapes, 6044; acres in raisin grapes, bearing, 20,514; in raisin grapes not bearing, 35,916, and total acres in raisin grapes, 56,430. The estimate of acreage of raisin grapes in the State, outside of the San Joaquin Valley, is 20,000 acres. From these figures, the deduction is made that the raisin vineyards in the State, now planted, will produce, when in full bearing, 7,600,000 boxes, any failures being more than offset by the extensive planting of the spring of this year.

Turning to the question of consumption, it is found that the total consumption of raisins in the United States, at the present time, is about 3,250,000 boxes, including dried grapes. The yield from the vineyards now planted in California, when in bearing, will, at the most conservative estimate, be more than double that amount. The importations of raisins for 1890 amounted to 1,845,716 boxes. Upon these statistics Mr. West bases the following reflections:

With these facts in view, is it not well for those who now contemplate planting raisin vineyards, to pause and consider, and study well the future of the industry. It is evident that the market must be relieved in some way by exportation or the consumption increased by a reduction in price, which will place the raisins of California on the market as a staple article of food. The shipment of green fruit to the eastern markets would also possibly reduce the surplus to some extent. It is the opinion of many that the relief will come from increased consumption. Raisins as used now, are a luxury, and are not found upon the tables of the poor. As a luxury the consumption will not increase in any ratio much in excess of the increase from 1884 to 1890 mentioned above, for the reason that a rise or fall of 2 or 3 cents per pound would not in any way affect the consumption of raisins among the people who are now using them. It is before the poorer classes that raisins must be placed as a staple article of food at a price which will attract them. As a food nothing could be more nutritious than a raisin or dried grape. There is a small profit in growing raisins at 3 cents per pound, stoned and put up in sacks ready for the market. This would place the raisins of California before the people of the East at a price lower than any other dried fruit, and no other fruit is so valuable as a food. When the raisins of California are so introduced, there can be no doubt but that the consumption will be wonderfully increased, but to what extent remains to be seen. This is a point which every man who now contemplates planting a raisin vineyard should carefully consider. In any event, it will take time to develop this market.

In considering the question of a foreign market, it must be remembered that when foreign raisins are driven out of America they must find a market somewhere else, even at a heavy fall in price. Even the question of foreign competition in our home market cannot be ignored. The duty is partly offset by difference in freight and labor.

These facts are worth considering by our vineyardists. Unjust suspicion was cast upon Mr. West's statements, owing to the unfortunate errors made in the transmission by wire. It is no use shutting our eyes to facts because they happen to be unpalatable ones. The question should be fully discussed in all its bearings. If the planting of raisin vineyards has for a time advanced ahead of the consumption of raisins, let us investivate the question of foreign markets, and if the outlook is not promising, then let us turn our attention for a time to other branches of the horticultural industry. Fortunately, there are many other horticultural products for which the demand is as yet far greater than the supply, such for instance, as figs, prunes, olives, apricots, walnuts and lemons.

ROAD LAW CHANGES.

Some amendments to the road laws of this State are imperatively demanded. It is next to impossible to effect any pronounced improvement in our system of roads, for the reason that every such undertaking is sure to run against a snag in the form of highway statutes. There is always some one or more persons living in every neighborhood to rise up and stand in the way of a proposed improvement, and to take any advantage within his reach to thwart the enterprise. To find a lawyer and a law to aid him in extorting money out of his public spirited neighbors as a condition of the improvement is no difficult task. This thing has occurred over and over again, and the statutes must be changed to give the people some show in these contests, or else the highway betterments in this State will continue to drag along at a sickening rate. As long as they may be impeded at will by any resident, be he native of this county, or of China, or any other land, not much progress can be expected. Some grand undertakings of this nature in this part of the State have been balked or stopped by the most unwarranted opposition, but the law sustained the opposition, and that was an end of the controversy. The people are thus compelled to suffer by the form of their own enactments, and the danger is that nothing will be accomplished for their relief at the present session of their law-makers, which is rapidly approaching an end. Subjects of less importance to the public certainly engage the attention of our legislators much of the time; but no subject will more certainly meet with the reward of a good conscience for its success than this of improving our road laws. In no other way is the public welfare so directly involved as in the matter of highways.

GOOD roads are a saving of teams, wagons, carriages, harness and the patience of drivers. By admitting of larger loads they reduce the number of trips in hauling freight, and so work a great saving of time and wages. Good roads prevent an untold amount of profanity and should therefore find an advocate in every pulpit. They are a real pleasure and make people happy, therefore they are great civilizers. Good roads are an excellent index of the enlightenment of a country. They do more to exalt its character than fine buildings or well cultivated farms.

GOOD news comes from Sacramento in regard to county division. It looks as if the divisionists were not "in it."

AMUSEMENTS.

LOS ANGELES THEATER. There was another good-sized audience gathered last night to witness the repetition of The Magistrate, and the performance went off very smoothly. Tonight there will be a change of bill, the attraction being Daly's adaptation from the German entitled 7 2 8. It is an excellent comedy and the Alcazar Company ought to be able to do full justice to its merits.

Next week at this house will be devoted to an unusual entertainment to be furnished by the Steen & Wood combination. The bill of fare is to include mind reading, clairvoyance, ventriloquism and parlor magic, together with a lady who "walks in space." The combination is said to be unusually good of its kind, and has attracted much attention wherever it has played.

CARPENTER KICKS.

The Senator "Deniges of It"—What "Jayhawker" Said.

THE TIMES has received the following telegram from Senator Carpenter at Sacramento:

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 3.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] There is no foundation for the statement of your correspondent, "Jayhawker", that I have assumed to represent Senator Stanford and the State administration. I have never asserted or intimated otherwise to anyone, at any time or place. R. B. CARPENTER.

The above telegram from Judge Carpenter was shown to "Jayhawker," who is in the city, and an explanation asked for.

"In the first place," said he, "my shorthand writer did not write what I said. I dictated the letter at night, and never saw it written out, as I left the bay within a half hour after I dictated the matter. What I meant to say, and did say, was that Judge Carpenter, who had had the courage to advocate Stanford in the campaign, as well as to represent the candidacy of Gov. Markham, had shown a weakness I had not expected, by an attempt to veneer with a coating of virtue a lot of men whom he must know were guilty as charged. My criticism was based upon the statement printed in an evening paper to the effect that after he had charged the county divisionists with working for money, he had retracted all he had said. The next day I learned that the report did not do him justice, and I telegraphed THE TIMES to change my letter to suit the facts, but Col. Otis did not understand what I meant, and the article was printed. The facts are that Judge Carpenter is entitled to the greatest credit for standing up and making the fight that he did, because I know that he could have made a liberal fee on the other side of the question, and I so intimated in the letter. If he does not represent the State administration on this division question he ought to, for the reasons that he is capable, and because his views are known to be in accord with those of the Governor. Finally, I don't think my criticism did the Judge any injury because it was not based on anything which he had done, but on what he was reported to have done. This interview reports me correctly as I have written it myself."

A Celebrated Picture Sold.

[Sacramento Bee.]

Ada L. Ballou's celebrated picture "Morning," which the State Fair directors refused to allow a place in the Pavilion, but which was made duly famous by the Bee's reporter and artist, has been sold to T. W. Stanford, a brother of Leland Stanford, who is a resident of Melbourne, Australia. Mr. Stanford is a very wealthy man, and owns the finest private art gallery in Australia. What he paid for "Morning" is not known, but it is said that the price far exceeded any sum offered for the picture in this country.

THE SENATORSHIP.

Chances of M. H. De Young and Others.

A GOSSIPY VIEW OF AFFAIRS.

Would $300,000 Buy the Seat?—Felton or Estee?—The Powers Said to Be Afraid of the Former.

The lively San Francisco correspondent of the Stockton Mail, who signs himself by the lugubrious nom de plume of "Undertaker," has the following letter in his paper on the senatorial question. It is interesting, even if some of the statements should perhaps be taken cum grano salis:

I met my amiable friend Bill Stow on the street yesterday and engaged him in conversation. We talked about all sorts of things till the conversation came round to the question of a vacancy in the United States Senate that is being agitated in this town with much indelicacy by the Call, Post and Chronicle.

Stow is a man of a good deal of sensibility, it seems, and he said that for his part he deprecated the indecent haste with which candidates were hurrying to the scene of action. For his part, as was well known, he had not been near Sacramento for many years.

"Is it true, Uncle Bill," (that is what I always call him,) "that you declined to promise to assist your friend Mike De Young to get the place when he met you on the street, as he says in his paper, and talked over the political situation?"

Uncle Bill fairly beamed.

"My dear Undertaker," said he, "you must not fall into that foolish habit of believing all that you see in the new papers. A good deal of what they print has got to be false. How could they find out the truth of everything they write unless they had a trial of the facts with a fine set of lawyers and an appeal to the Supreme Court when all was over, to tell when the lie was out?"

"But, Uncle Bill, Mike De Young says in his paper that you and he are old social friends and, if that is the case, why don't you help him to be Senator?"

"My dear Undertaker," said he once more in his nice, easy way, "I do not like to talk about this Senator business, for it is not in good taste, and as your friend Bierce would say, 'Give me good taste or give me death;' but the fact is I am afraid that my social friend, De Young, rather suspects me of taking a hand in politics, and if he was to catch me trying to make him United States Senator, he would say that a 'corporation hireling'—that is what he calls them—had no business to interfere with the wishes of the people, for he is great on the wishes of the people, is Mr. De Young, and it is right that he should be."

"Would it not be a nice thing for a man in your place to have a Republican organ at his back, always ready to make a fight for him?"

"My dear Undertaker," said Stow, for the third time, for he is the one man here who knows who I really am, "I see it is of no use to fence with you and I will not tell a lie; Mr. De Young's indiscretion makes it impossible for me to help him."

"How?"

"You remember when he was in New York he was interviewed and, being a newspaper man, he did not know how dangerous the interviewer is. So he got to telling all he knew about politics and the situation. He said a lot of things about Senator Stanford's reelection. And at the end of it all he said that he could be elected Senator himself for $300,000.

"Right there is the main trouble," continued the personal enemy of the new Constitution. "The sum of $300,000 would be about $4,000 a vote, and if I was to ask the boys to take any less they would think that I was trying to hold out on them, and it would never do for me to get that reputation. I could afford better to pay them every cent there was in it, and you see, if Mr. De Young, who knows that $300,000 would do the job, wanted to spend that sum for his election it would be better for him to handle his sack himself and put the commission in his own pocket.

"I think this explanation will be more acceptable than for me to say that Mr. De Young has thrown so much mud at me that my help in his political fights would hurt his reputation."

As I walked along, profoundly impressed with the wisdom of my friend Stow's remarks, who should I meet but my old chum, Dan Burns—Col. Burns, by the grace of Markham.

"Colonel," said I, drawing him into a doorway, just like Judge Maloney or any other politician, "is it true, as our friend, the editor of the Post, says, that Mike De Young asked your help to make him a United States Senator and you refused?"

The Colonel made a military salute, threw back the lapel of his heliotrope colored overcoat—a masterpiece of the tailor's art of Curley Brothers—and narrowing his eyes down to a point, said:

"Hadn't you better ask Mr. De Young about his affairs?"

"Well, the truth is," said I, "I do not care to talk to Mike about himself he is so full of the subject that he is apt to slop over, and when he does that he makes you feel the need of a very long vacation. You might just as well tell me all about it."

"As a good-natured man I do not like to say no. I cannot be of any assistance to Mr. De Young in this affair."

"Why not? Do you want the place for yourself?"

"Excuse me," said the Colonel firmly, "But I am not in politics for the gratification of my personal ambition, and nothing is farther from me than a desire to spend my winters in Washington."

"Then what is the reason that you cannot or will not lend your powerful aid to Mike De Young?"

Once more the Colonel's eyes narrowed down to a point and he said.

"You see, the last time he was in New York Mr. De Young declared that he could be Senator from California if he would pay $300,000 for the place. As that is his estimate of the way and the cost to reach the goal of his ambition it would be mean and impolitic for me to assist him to get there for nothing. How could I excuse myself to our poor patriots at Sacramento for preventing the division of so large a sum as $300,000 among those who need a share? Why, they even might suspect me of a desire to hold out the entire sum for myself."

"Do you think that $300,000 would elect Mr. De Young United States Senator?"

The Colonel thought for a few moments and then said slowly and as though he had deliberated full on every word before it uttered it:

"It would be dirt cheap for ten times the money."

Then I asked Col. Crocker if it was true, as the Bat stated, that he had been asked by Mr. De Young to aid him to become United States Senator. Crocker was crafty and evaded the question,

"I have heard," said he, "that Mr. M. H. De Young has said that for $300, 00 he could secure his election as United States Senator. If that is the case—mind I do not say that it is so—what sense would there be in his putting himself under any obligation to our company, or to myself, for assistance, for I am credibly informed that Mr. M. H. De Young is worth a great deal more than the sum he is said to have named as the price of a seat in the Senate."

I think that I made a serious error the other day when I said that, in case a vacancy should have to be filled by this Legislature, Charles N. Felton would be the man.

I have since learned that arrangements have already been made for another man, and the mention of his name will surprise you.

Morris M. Estee, familiarly known as the great Pan-American Ass, is to have the place.

Now for the reasons, as they have been told to me by men who are in the habit of making politics and handling such affairs:

The powers, and that includes everything from the North American Company of Alaska to the sugar combines, are afraid of Felton. The Mills syndicate that got the lease of the Seal islands hates him because he did all in his power to get the lease for the old Alaska Commercial Company, and Lloyd Tevis hates him for the same reason. The sugar company that is his friend thinks that he is a man who could not be handled very well, and the other crowd have no use for him. The railroad people have no feeling in the fight except that they would be willing to see old sores healed by the election of Estee, whom they beat when he ran for Governor because he had been a Dolly Varden and lots of other evil things.

Estee can have all the financial backing that he needs in his fight. He has done some favors to Dan Burns, and that grateful individual will place his fortune at Estee's disposal, and this is no figure of speech, either. The railroad will not put up a cent to beat Estee and they will not spend any money to elect Felton, who has plenty of his own but is not given to spending more than he can help.

Personally Stanford likes Felton, but he is not likely to go out of his way to make him Senator. As senior Senator he would naturally prefer a soft man like Estee, who would do as he was told and not interfere with the patronage, to a firm, keen man like Felton, who would want to run things his own way and prepare to make himself a big political power in his old days.

Apart from these reasons, which are all plausible, I have been told that Estee is the man, and while my judgment leaned to Felton's chances, I must admit that the men who named Estee know more of the game than I do, and are playing it themselves.

The politicians down here are wild at the selection of Brown for Register, and are making a big talk about what they intend to do, but they will not do anything except try and get some places under him when he takes office. Smiley had a tremendous lot of indorsements; but that does not alter the fact that he was none too competent and had to depend more on his subordinates than is good for the head of an office to do. The case may be typical of all such cases in this administration. Markham prefers his friends and his friends' friends to his enemies' friends, and is willing to take chances of a successful administration with the friends of the men who helped him to the nomination. It is charged against Brown, and with truth, that he plays a strong game of poker and has been known to gaze upon the faro chip when it was blue. With equal truth it could be said that Smiley had gambled in stocks. Brown is a man who will give his party as much the best of an election as he can. Party service of this kind was the principal reason urged for the retention of Smiley.

Some Time.

[About two weeks ago Mrs. Alida Winters, who had been adjudged insane, committed suicide at the County Jail by taking poison. The following, found between the pages of her Bible, indicated the train of her mind.]

Some time, tired heart of mine,
You shall have a long, long rest;
And the quiet, evening sun
Sloping outward to the west,
Creeping in the casement wide,
Shall look on a quiet breast.
Though the birds shall coo and call
As the deeper shadows fall,
You may rest.

Some time, patient eyes of mine,
You may take a long, long sleep;
Though the early, morning sun
All along the walls shall creep,
Woaken eyelids will not stir
From the watching which they keep;
Though a sunbeam overbold,
Seek to part your curtain's fold,
You may sleep.

Some time, striving hands of mine,
There will be a long, long peace;
Loosened from the tasks you held
Into new and sweet release
Other hands must place you close
In a dumb amen for grave.
Even love's ouch, soft and warm,
Dare not break such prayerful form
Of your peace.

Some time, restless feet of mine
There will come a long, long day
When you need not cross the sill
From the flush ng till the gray,
Other steps must bear you forth
To the place where days delay.
Though I led you out at light
They will bring you home when night
Ends our day.

DIVISION KILLED.

The Senate Committee Will Report Adversely.

A Unanimous Verdict Except as to the Pomona Scheme.

The Electric Road Bills Come in for a Thorough Discussion.

Shanahan Proves an Enemy of the Measures—Gambling Devices and Pool Selling on the Races.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 3.—[Special.] The Senate Committee on County Boundaries has come to an agreement on the Division bills. The vote on Pomona county was six against division and three in favor of it. Ragsdale, McGowan and Britt. The committee was unanimous in voting to report adversely as to the counties of Riverside, San Jacinto and Oceanside. The report will be made to the Senate today.

IN THE LEGISLATURE.

The World's Fair Bill Creates a Discussion in the Senate.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 3.—[By the Associated Press.] In the Senate the San Francisco delegation reported favorably on the claim of Polk Creighton against San Francisco for $30,000.

The Hospital Committee reported favorably on the appropriation of $80,000 for a medical college in San Francisco.

The Barry Contempt Bill was passed by a vote of 30 to 6.

Young's Anti-Pool-Selling Bill was substituted for Campbell's, and went to third reading.

The bill to increase the police force of San Francisco was passed to third reading.

The second reading of bills was then continued and the two electric road bills were passed to third reading without further comment.

Bills were introduced as follows:

By Ragsdale—An amendment to the Constitution relative to the Board of Equalization.

By Simpson—Abolishing the offices of justices of the peace in all cities having less than 20,000 inhabitants.

By Crandall—To define the duties of land surveyors.

The bill providing for a $600,000 appropriation for a ferry depot in San Francisco was passed.

At the opening of the afternoon session the bill creating a board of pardons was made the special order for Friday next and the second reading of bills was taken up.

The Elections Committee reported on the Mahoney-Murphy contest, seat Mahoney. Action on the report was made a special order for tomorrow at 2 o'clock.

The Senate consumed most of the day in discussion on the all-important question, whether wheels of fortune should be included with hokey pokey in the Anti-gambling Bill offered by Dray, of Sacramento, the other day. The amendment was proposed by Williams of San Francisco to exclude wheels of fortune, which, with hokey-poker, had been added to the list of prohibited games. The Senate rejected the amendment and the wheel went into the law with faro and the rest of the games.

This morning the bill came up for the third reading and final passage. Williams moved that it be referred to a committee of one with instructions to amend the bill, striking out the words "wheel of fortune." Heacock raised a point of order, but the President of the Senate decided against him, and the Senate adopted Williams's suggestion.

Britt prepared his amendment and the Senate adopted it, so that the wheel is not prohibited. The Senate today passed the bill authorizing the purchase of the grounds on which are located the fish hatcheries at Sisson and Tahoe.

The Senate Bill is to be substituted for Young's bill, which closes poolrooms, but permits pool selling on race tracks; but makes such an act outside of the tracks punishable by fines of from $100 to $1000. The leasing of rooms for pool-selling is also a misdemeanor. The substitute has been ordered to print and will come up for third reading and final passage in a few days.

Assembly.

In the Assembly a motion to reconsider the vote by which Eakle was seated yesterday was lost by a vote of 51 to 17. During the discussion Bledsoe scored a number of members for their action, and Matlock and Dibble had a tilt, Matlock claiming that Shannahan had led the Republicans like sheep. Dibble retorted that Campbell was not a Republican and that he (Dibble) had the word of the Speaker that Campbell would have voted for Stephen M. White for Senator.

The World's Fair Bill was taken up. An amendment restricting the commissioners to $2000 each for expenses, was adopted. Bledsoe offered an amendment cutting down the appropriation in the bill to $100,000. Dibble said that the appropriation of such a sum would be an absolute waste, nothing could be done with that amount. Clark of Yolo favored Bledsoe's amendment, but it was voted down.

Bruner went on to describe the necessity of appropriating $300,000 for the exhibition. "The time has come," he said, "when we must spend money to bring money here. Look at the South with its increase of population, wealth and influence through judicious advertising of its resources.

Gen. Matthews of Los Angeles, a young man with clean-cut features and a military moustache, spoke forcibly of large appropriations by other States. He told of the ambitious projects of Kansas, Pennsylvania and Texas, which have appropriated over a million dollars.

The gentlemen who compose the California World Fair Commission rank high and can be trusted to disburse $300,000 so that it will inevitably redound to the prosperity of the State. As convincing proof of the advantage of spreading the reputation of California in the East, he pointed to the progress of his own county. Now Los Angeles is the second city in the state. A few years ago it was a little capital of a cow county.

Gordon, of Redwood City presented resolutions from his constituents demanding an appropriation of not less than $300,000. Anything worth doing, he said, is worth doing well.

Hocking of Nevada thought that the appropriation was intended to be of great advantage. Many private firms spend more than $100,000 a year in advertising. As a representative of a mining constituency he would vote for a liberal appropriation. Bledsoe and Clark made a final protest against the appropriation of $300,000 and declared the State taxed to death. The former made a pathetic appeal for his constituents quarrying rocks and splitting sawlogs in the mountains and valleys whose feeling would be outraged to find the Legislature give the commissioners $300,000 to ride in palace cars and hire secretaries and other retainers.

This roused Bruner, and he turned on the champion of low taxes and declared that Clark was maliciously unfair, as he knew that the expense of the seven commissioners for two years, was limited to $1400.

Shannahan ironically suggested that the commissioners be compelled to ride in emigrant cars so as not to disturb the Spartan virtues of Assemblyman Clark.

Renfrew moved to raise the amount to $500,000, but it was voted down.

Then Bledsoe moved to make the amount $150,000. This was also defeated by a vivi voce vote, no roll call being permissible in committee of the whole.

Dibble moved that the committee rise and report the bill back to the Assembly with the recommendation that it pass. A shout of ayes drowned the straggling fire of noes, and the committee merged into the regular Assembly once more. The bill has gone for engrossment and will be read for the third time and passed on Thursday. It stands as it came from the Committee on Ways and Means. It provides for the appointment of seven commissioners by the Governor, who shall be allowed $2000 each for traveling expenses. The appropriation is $300,000.

The Electric Railroad Bills kept the Assembly in a ferment till the dinner hour. Then they came up as the special order, and Speaker Coombs moved to amend so that supervisors should have full power to declare when the wires and poles necessary for the roads become dangerous and should be removed.

Gould wanted to amend so that companies should have a years' notice before overhead wires and poles are to be removed.

The opponents of the bill, who were led by Dibble and Shanahan, thought it an outrage on the large cities to permit the working of electric railroads on the present system, which would increase the perils of life and obstruction of traffic.

Culver and McCall of Alameda, made vigorous appeals for the passage of the bills without amendment.

The opponents claimed that the advocates of the bills had not acted in good faith with the Legislature and that the real and concerted object of the measure was to permit the reconstruction of the present horse-car roads in San Francisco into electric roads.

Marion of Los Angeles championed the bill and so did Brusie of Sacramento, who said that he did not understand how a man like Shannahan, representing a constituency of Shasta sheep-herders and mountain farmers took such a lively interest in the obstruction of the crowded thoroughfares of San Francisco.

Shannahan retorted furiously that he had rather represent sheep-herders than the bummers and loafers of the Sacramento water front, and Elwood Bruner who occupied the speaker's chair, had hard work to restore order.

Speaker Coombs made a long and learned legal argument in favor of his amendment, but Dibble moved to make the bills the special order for tomorrow. Lobby predictions are that the bills will eventually pass.

IN THE COMMONS.

A Heated Debate Over the Adoption of the New Rifle.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] In the Commons today, Lowther gave notice of a motion requesting the government to take immediate measures to promote the formation of preferential fiscal relations between Great Britain and her colonies.

Mr. Majoribanke moved the appointment of a commission to examine the new magazine rifle and the reasons for its adoption. Hanburg condemned the system by which the new rifle was introduced. He said that out of thirteen patents connected with the rifle one official held ten in his own name. He therefore moved as an amendment that for the commission to inquire into the mere details of the military administration was undesirable, as weakening the full responsibility of the officials who recommended the rifle.

After a sharp debate, in which the War Office was severely criticised, the amendment carried—108 to 74.

A motion by Hicks-Beach, to appoint a select committee to inquire into the question of legislative restriction of the working hours of railway servants, was agreed to.

A Gigantic Coal Yard.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—A local paper says that the coal and railway men in this city have discussed a plan to establish, at some point near the city, the largest coal yard in the world. It involves the purchase of something like 300 acres of land on the lake shore in or near South Chicago, the building of great docks and coal warehouses and the construction of railroad tracks. The project does not mean a coal trust, but rather a coal clearing-house where dealers and shippers will congregate to get supplies.

The Ward's Ferry Affair.

SONORA (Cal.,) Feb. 3.—Nothing new has yet developed to throw any light upon the horrible Ward's Ferry crime. The brain of Lowe, although burned almost to a crisp, showed plainly the course of a bullet, and that he was shot from behind was also evident. The remains of the unfortunate men were buried today.

NAMED NO NAMES.

Owenby Before the Silver Pool Committee.

He Is Kept From Telling All He Knows About the Matter.

Both Senators and Representatives Said to Have Speculated.

The Fortifications Appropriation Cut Down in the Senate—San Diego Military Post—Civil Appropriations—Notes.

By Telegraph to The Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—[By the Associated Press.] James A. Owenby resumed his testimony before the Silver Pool Investigation Committee today. He recurred to the conversation with Donald, the Hanover Bank cashier. Donald, Owenby said, informed him that certain Senators and Representatives were interested in silver transactions. He offered to give names, but Messrs. Payne and Rowell made decided objections, and insisted on what was said at these conventions being given, but with the names omitted. Mr. Oates thought that the names should be given, and Owenby said that he could not properly give the conversations without the names. About seven Congressmen, he thought, were mentioned.

Donald had also stated that Congressmen were interested in silver through certain parties or institutions. The Fourth National and Chase National banks were doing business for these Congressmen, Donald said. Donald had also stated that Zimmerman & Forshay, August Belmont and Carson & Simmonds were interested. Orders for silver were given them and it was bought in London to cover up their tracks. Donald also told the witness that he got information from a private agent here, whom he kept in his employ. He did not know his name. Donald said that when he had any doubts about matters he came over and saw a senator and also a representative with whom he had close relations.

Donald had two Congressional friends, but the witness understood him to refer more particularly to the Representative. Donald claimed to be interested in these silver transactions. The total amount of silver agreed to be bought by persons interested with Donald, the witness said, was $1,000,000 worth. He could not remember the exact date of these conversations. There was no one present at the conversations. To the best of the witness's recollection the silver was bought at 97 and up to 103. At one time Donald spoke of the sale of silver, but did not state how much was sold.

Before making these latter answers Owenby had examined two slips of paper he carried. Mr. Payne asked what those slips were, and the witness said that they were memoranda that he had made half an hour ago from some letters and telegrams from Donald which he had with him. Before handing to the committee these letters and telegrams he insisted on their return during the day as soon as copies could be made. He also submitted a letter from Parsons of Wells, Fargo & Co.

Owenby was then examined as to his contract arrangements with Donald. They were verbal, he said.

A letter from Parsons to Owenby was in regard to the stock of the Batopolis Mining Company in Mexico. Parsons wanted Owenby to induce a man named Fowler to buy some of the company's bonds. Owenby had read this to show that his standing with Parsons was different from what Parsons had stated.

In regard to his contract with Parsons, the witness said that he was to give all the information he could possibly get. His personal expenses were to be paid and he was to share and share alike with those who went into the purchase of silver. Donald was to carry silver for him, and agreed to carry 250,000 ounces. For his personal expenses in Washington, he drew on Donald. Donald never paid the witness anything on the silver deal.

The witness said that Donald had told him that he (Donald) had information of 6,000,000 ounces of silver being purchased by five banks and brokerage houses, which he named. He believed that Donald named some of the persons for whom purchases were made, and the witness mentioned the name of Representative Ketchum of New York, as one of them. He insisted on this statement and again wanted to give the names, so as to make his story clear, but Mr. Payne replied that it would be little short of an outrage to allow the names of any respectable men to be given unless the witness had other than hearsay testimony.

Donald, Owenby said, told him that the parties to the silver pool got into a wrangle; that he (Donald) had got out of it and theretore could not make anything out of it for the witness.

Donald took that method of repudiating the arrangement with the witness. The silver purchasers sold out at $1.17, and the witness figured that he ought to get 15 cents an ounce on 245,000 ounces, or between $35,000 and $40,000.

Owenby said that he had also received information from David T. Littler, Bill Hall, assistant cashier of the Hanover Bank, and J. L. Cunningham, of persons being interested in silver speculation. The witness mentioned the names of persons interested and Littler assented and also mentioned the names of Congressmen.

Owenby said that he had no direct personal knowledge of any congressional silver speculation. The statement in correspondent Stevens' publication that the largest pool was one of senators and New York capitalists, and that it was interested to the extent of 7,000,000 ounces was based, by the witness, on statements made by Littler, who said that the men were frequenters of Chamberlain's.

He had stated to Stevens that impecuneous congressmen were permitted to borrow money on their individual notes without security, for the purpose of carrying silver.

Donald gave him this information. He also told Stevens that Cullom, Teller, Cameron and others were not in the pool. His statement about Cullom was from personal knowledge. The witness went to Senator Cullom, stated that he was interested in silver purchases, and, in a polite way, stated that a number of Congressmen were interested.

Mr. Cullom stopped him at once, and told him to go no further; that he (Mr. Cullom) had never speculated and could never allow anyone to carry silver for him. The statements made by Mr. Stevens were gone over carefully, item by item, and the witness said in each case that he had made substantially that statement.

FIFTY-FIRST CONGRESS.

SECOND SESSION.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—[By the Associated Press.] Senate.—Among the petitions presented was one from the banks of New Orleans deprecating any further discussion of the free-coinage scheme.

The House bill to amend the section of the Revised Statutes with reference to temporary designations to fill vacancies in case of death, sickness or absence in the heads of departments, was reported back with a substitute. The substitute amends the three sections on that subject and limits to thirty days the period of such designation, except where the duties are exercised by an assistant secretary, in which case there shall be no limitation. After some discussion the substitute was rejected and the House bill passed.

Consideration of the Fortifications Bill was then resumed. The first item that attracted notice in the Fortifications Bill was the one appropriating $1,000,000 for the purchase of oil-tempered annealed steel for high-power coast-defense guns of eight, ten and twelve-inch caliber. The Committee on Appropriations recommended a reduction of the amount to $800,000, and Mr. Gorman moved to still further further reduce it to $250,000. After a long discussion Mr. Gorman's amendment was rejected and the committee amendment agreed to—yeas 39, nays 7. (Messrs. Candler, Cullom, Dolph, Frye, Hawley, Stewart and Teller.)

The next amendment reported by the Committee on Appropriations was to insert "for breech-loading sea-coast mortars, cast iron, hooped with steel, of twelve-inch caliber, $400,000. Provided that contracts may be made for not more than one-half of them be to constructed on the Pacific coast in the discretion of the Secretary of War." Mr. Candler moved an amendment to the paragraph to read "For breech-loading rifled-steel mortars of twelve-inch calibre" etc. No action was reached.

The Senate bill authorizing the Secretary of War to have a suitable selection made for a military post and harbor defenses at San Diego, Cal., and report the cost thereof to Congress, was passed.

The Senate concurred in the House amendment to the Senate bill for a public building at St. Paul, Minn., reducing the amount from $1,500,000 to $800,000.

The Military Academy Appropriation Bill was reported and the Senate adjourned.

House.—After the approval of the journal the House proceeded to dispose of various matters of private business on the Speaker's table.

The Senate bill to prohibit the sale of tobacco to minors under sixteen years of age in the District of Columbia was passed, also the Senate bill granting to the Umatilla Irrigation Company a right of way through the Umatilla Indian reservation, Oregon.

On motion of Mr. Caldwell of Ohio the Senate amendment was agreed to, to the House bill granting a pension to the widow of the late Gen. Noyes.

On motion of Mr. Crain of Texas the Senate amendments were concurred in to the House bill to promote the construction of a safe deep-water harbor on the coast of Texas.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the Diplomatic and Consular Appropriation Bill. Mr. McKenna of California, replying to Mr. McCreary's criticism a few days ago of the Barrundia case, defended the action of Minister Mizner in the matter. If he (Mr. McKenna) understood Mizner's situation, he was supported by every publisher of repute. Mizner has as strong a regard for the flag and a tender sensitiveness toward it as any man on the floor. He (Mr. McKenna) asserted that in his situation at his post in Guatemala, Mizner did himself honor and his country honor. [Applause.]

Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania came to the defense of Commander Reiter. In due time he proposed to submit some remarks in support of these propositions. The Secretary of the Treasury had no right under the law to administer a public reprimand to Commander Reiter, as he had done, by an insulting letter published in the press. Reiter and Mizner followed international law as practiced in the last fifty years in the country's history.

Mr. Hitt of Illinois made a most eloquent defense of the State Department. He reviewed the case at length and said, in closing: "God grant that no man of any party shall ever be Secretary of State who will not disavow the act of a minister who orders the surrender of a political victim who trusts to our protection, and the act of a commander who sits supine with two war vessels at his back and permits such a bloody tragedy and disgrace to our national name. [Applause.]

After further debate the committee, without disposing of the bill, rose, and the House adjourned.

THE FREE COINAGE BILL.

The House Committee Will Listen to Further Argument.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—[By the Associated Press.] The chairman of the House Committee on Coinage this morning read a telegraphic appeal from St. Louis for a further hearing on the Free Coinage Bill. Messrs. Bland and Bartine protested against further delay, and Mr. Walker argued in favor of granting a further appeal. The debate became heated. Mr. Vaux moved that the St. Louis delegation be heard not later than next Tuesday. Mr. Bartine moved an amendment that no further hearings be had after next Tuesday and that the committee proceed to consider the bill.

Mr. Walker moved to table the amendment. The motion to table carried—yeas 7, nays 5, the chair voting with the free coinage men. On the next question, however, the hearing of the St. Louis delegation, he voted in favor of doing so, and the motion prevailed—yeas 8, nays 4.

How the Highbinders Reward Those Who Kill Their Enemies.

A Startling Circular Issued by a San Francisco Society.

The Clever Scheme of a Celestial to Beat the Revenue Officers—The Ward's Ferry Murders—Coast News.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—[By the Associated Press.] Chief Crowley today received from Victoria, B. C., a document written in Chinese to Sum Hip, and signed with the seal of the Chi Kung Teng, which proved to be a copy of instructions sent every branch of this highbinder order in the United States; Canada, Cuba and Mexico from the headquarters of the society in this city. After showing what is required of the society's braves, the circular says that the order will pay $500 to the friends of the "salaried soldier," as he is called, in case he is slain in the discharge of his duty. If he is maimed for life and incapacitated for work $250 will be paid him and a subscription taken to defray the costs of a journey home to China. Furthermore, whenever he exerts his strength to kill and wound enemies of this Tong, and in so doing is arrested and imprisoned, $100 per year will be paid his friends during his time of imprisonment.

A CLEVER CHINAMAN.

The Government Swindled Out of a Large Revenue.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—[By the Associated Press.] A scheme has just come to light whereby a sharp Chinaman swindled the United States Government out of some $30,000 revenue. It is the custom here, when goods are imported, to take to the appraisers' store 10 per cent. of them, from which the total duty is to be calculated. The Custom House broker has to file a bond of $400 for payment of the duty and the owner is then allowed to take the other nine-tenths to his place of business.

On January 1, this year, a Chinaman went through this routine, leaving 10 per cent. of a large shipment of opium with the appraisers. Now that he is wanted to pay the duty he cannot be found. As the duty on the full amount of the opium he imported will be about $35,000, and the 10 per cent left by him is only worth about $3500, he makes a clean profit of over $30,000. He gave what is believed to be an assumed name and has so long a start that is is not believed he can be caught.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC EARNINGS.

A Gratifying Increase in Both Departments Over 1889.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—[By the Associated Press.] Secretary Lansing's report for December shows that the earnings of the Southern Pacific Company for that month amounted to $4,010,985, an increase over the earnings of December, 1889, of $307,811. The operating expenses for December, 1890, were $2,734,244, while for the same month in 1889 they amounted to $2,911,634. The gross earnings of that company for 1890 amounted to $68,209,151 and the operating expenses to $30,907,727. For 1889 the gross earnings were $66,627,863 and the operating expenses $30,306,366, which shows an increase in the earnings of last year over those of 1888 of $1,778,288, and in the operating expenses of $603,362, a net increase of $1,174,926.

A MONGOLIAN TRAGEDY.

The Mysterious Murder of a Chinese Woman at Marysville.

MARYSVILLE (Cal.) Feb. 3.—[By the Associated Press.] Last night a Chinaman ran to the police office, saying that his wife was killed. The officers found in a room in Chinatown a China woman with her throat cut and skull crushed. A bloody hatchet was found. The doctors say that the woman had been dead over an hour and the cuts on the throat were done with a sharp knife. Chinamen say that the woman had money, but none could be found. A white man happened near and a mob of Chinamen tried to capture him, but he was protected by the police. He was arrested, but soon released. The police have no clew to the murderer. The Chinese claim that the deed was done by a white man, but this is not believed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—The sweet wine manufacturers tomorrow will effect a permanent organization. At a meeting held today the following committee was appointed to prepare preliminaries for the organization: L. P. Drexler, A. W. Crabb, P. C. Ross, H. W. McIntyre and F. C. West. It was decided to send a delegate to Washington to advocate the cause of sweet wine legislation before Commissioner Mason. Fully 100 men will join the organization.

The Strike at Crocker's.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—There are no new developments in the printers' strike at Crocker & Co.'s establishment, but at the headquarters of the printers' union a feeling of confidence prevails, and Secretary McDaiad stated this morning that in his opinion the strike would run only a few days longer, as the firm will find that they will be unable to get competent men to do the high-class of work they have on hand.

A Publisher Sued for Libel.

BAKERSFIELD (Cal.), Feb. 3.—Today A. C. Maude, publisher and proprietor, was served with a summons in a libel suit commenced in Tulare county for $25,000 damages, by James Herrington, who was, sometime last October, taken out of the County Jail by a mob and tarred and feathered. The complaint alleges that Maude published Herrington as a shyster and pettyfogger engaged in working up blackmailing contests.

ONLY TEMPORARY STRUCTURES.

The World's Fair Buildings Will be Removed After the Show.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—[By the Associated Press.] The property-owners on Michigan avenue filed another bill in the Circuit Court today to restrain the World's Columbian Exposition from erecting buildings on the lake front until a decree is entered providing for the removal of the structures after the close of the fair. The Exposition Company answered immediately that they had no objection to such a provision, and Judge Tuley entered the desired decree providing for the removal, after the fair, of all buildings except the art building, which is designed to be permanent.

ADRIFT ON THE ICE.

Fresh-water Fishermen Carried Out Into Lake Huron.

BAY CITY (Mich.,) Feb. 3.—[By the Associated Press.] Much excitement prevails here concerning the report that many fishermen have drifted into Lake Huron on an ice field carried out of Saginaw Bay by a strong south wind today from a fishing village. They are supposed to be about fifteen miles northeast of the city and five miles from land. It is estimated that 200 men were engaged in spearing fish, and the first reports were to the effect that all were lost.

Toward evening several of the fishermen reached Essexville, a suburb of this city, and reported that most of their companions reached shore in safety. The best authority obtained places the number of castaways at from twenty to fifty. Those acquainted with the situation say that they will reach shore before the ice passes outside of Saginaw Bay. If they do not there is no hope of their being rescued.

CLAIM TITLE TO THE CAPITOL.

A Remarkable Claim Filed by the Heirs of Dr. Hugo.

ALTON (Ill.,) Feb. 3.—[By the Associated Press.] United States Claim Agent Platt of this city has filed in the Land Office at Washington a remarkable claim. It is in favor of Edward Hugo, Mrs. W. P. Paul and Mrs. Bryo of this city, and C. S. Hugo of Peoria, who are the heirs of Dr. Samuel B. Hugo, and in it they claim ownership to part of Capitol Square in Washington.

The document is in the shape of a land warrant from the General Assembly of Maryland, dated April 15, 1788, for lots 2088, 2091, 2703 and 2704. This includes about five acres of land described as "lying to the west of Port Cumberland, Allegheny county, Maryland." The claim was filed and recorded at Washington, and will, if it holds, involve the ownership of the ground on which the national Capital now stands.

IN THE REICHSTAG.

England Will Look After German Interests in Chili.

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] In the Reichstag today, Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, said that Great Britain had undertaken to represent German interests in Chili.

Replying to a question as to the action of the police of Hoboken, N. J., toward the officers and crew of the North German Lloyd steamer Elbe, he said that the United States Government had promised to make inquiry into the affair, and, considering the friendly relations existing between the United States Government and the Imperial government, a settlement of the matter was expected.

A report from Maj. Wissmann was laid on the table, it states that Emin Pash's expedition had been, on several occasions, in a critical condition. In a battle fought near Idabura, 173 hostiles were killed or severely wounded, and the expedition lost six men.

Senatorial.

[San Francisco Call.]

It is now considered probable that the duty of electing a senator will devolve upon the present Legislature. Three or four aspirants for the position have become active, and are reported as paying court to Senator Stanford's political representatives in this city. It is a little significant that none of these men go to the Legislature and present their claims. They all go to somebody who is presumed to have the power to direct the Legislature in the choice of senator. In so doing they pay a poor compliment to the ninety Republicans who, by law, hold the choice in their hands, but we presume they know what they are about. The Call has no candidate for Senator. We would like to see a man elected who can do the State some service. Our present Senators seem to have no other power than to provoke the body of which they are members to hostile actions against the State. For some years California has elected Senators because certain men wanted to be elected. It has not given a thought to personal fitness or to the ability of aspirants to do something for the State. If a number of men wanted the honor and were able and willing to pay for it, the choice would be made from the list. The fact of a man having succeeded in making money is a poor reason why his ambition to be Senator should be gratified. We have elected enough Senators simply because aspirants were rich, and the State would now set a good example by electing one who is known to be without the means to buy the nomination.

The Southern California Historical Society.

[Sacramento Record-Union.]

The bill to aid the Southern California Historical Association is in itself conservative of a worthy organization, one that is doing a valuable work, but it is not at all probable that with the multitude of demands made upon the Legislature at this session, any historical or scientific association will receive aid from the State. The time will come when all necessary State institutions are founded, and the demand for appropriations for their extension and enlargement ceases, that the State will give aid to the advancement of scientific and historical work, but at present it is too much to expect. Nor indeed would it be wise at this time to endeavor to advance the work of any single institution, since it is not possible to render one assistance without committing the State to the policy of aiding all equally worthy, and California is not now so situated that she can do that.

The ocean breeze gives life. Grain and all manner of fruits grow luxuriantly"—Samuel Storey, M. Money, Stocks and Bonds.

By Telegraph to The Times.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—MONEY—On call, easy; closing offered at 3 per cent.

PRIME MERCANTILE PAPER—3@5½.

STERLING EXCHANGE—Quiet, easier; 60-day bills, 4.84½; demand, 4.84.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The stock market today had somewhat of a reaction, though the movement was marked in only a few stocks, such as Union Pacific, Rock Island and Western Union, but the rest of the list presented a firm front during most of the time.

After the first demand was satisfied there was a considerable pressure of short stocks and prices sagged throughout the remainder of the day. The downward movement, however, was in no case specially important outside of Union Pacific and the corn roads. The market closed dull and heavy at small fractions under the opening prices in most cases. Union Pacific is 1⅛ lower.

Government bonds were steady.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—[Special to THE TIMES.] The fruit market is quiet and very little is being done in that line. Seedling oranges are coming in freely, but there is very little demand. Shipments of Navels have been light of late and the market at present is firm. Apples are in heavy supply and are dull.

The price of asparagus is rather high, owing to there being but little on the market. Potatoes are steady at unchanged quotations. The arrivals are falling off.

Reports from the East do not augur well for dried fruits. The situation in California raisins shows no sign of improvement, and in this market inquiry for peaches and evaporated apples is slow.

Hides, wool and leather remain about the same. The grain markets were very quiet this morning. Quotations on all cereals are unchanged. Wheat continues steady but inactive. Barley is firmly held. Oats and corn are dull. There is no change in bran, middlings or other mill stuffs. Beans continue quiet and hay steady, with fair demand.

Oil Upon Troubled Waters.

A suggestion has been made that oil might with advantage be used at the most exposed lighthouses to reduce the force of the waves. It is thought that this end might be attained by placing, say, a couple of small steel buoys in the most exposed direction at a distance from the lighthouse of some 150 feet. There should be a pulley on the buoy and a slight rope, so that the bag or appliance for distributing the oil could always be hauled in when required. The method is most simple, and can be tested without great expense.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Let Christmas Stand for Pleasure.

Christmas is the preacher who emphasizes the fact that the religion which it celebrates is adapted to human nature. Horace is called the laureate of the worldly, of the epicurean, of the pagan who would eat and drink in view of tomorrow. The gay adage dum vivimus is cited with a shudder as the gospel of pleasure. Christmas was hunted in the Puritan parliament as a kind of god of pleasure who was only a masked devil. It was confounded by Governor Bradford with the Belly god. But why, said Charles Wesley, as he sweetly sang—why give all the good tunes to Satan? The sweet singer might have enlarged his view and his question. Why give Satan any of the good things? Why, above all, let him have Christmas, as Andromeda was abandoned to the dragon of the sea? Let Christmas stand for pleasure and for the reason that it is especially the Christian day. Then Christianity drops her weeds and smiles.—Harper's.

An Impostor Who Made Money.

One of the men who made a fortune out of the Cardiff giant humbug nearly twenty years ago died in New York recently. His name was George Hull. He was formerly a tobacconist in Binghamton, and was the author of the fraud, which he engaged an Italian stonecutter of Chicago to carry out. A large gypsum slab was obtained in Iowa and cut into the form of a gigantic man. The stone was artificially colored, to give the appearance of great age, and then buried in the vicinity of Cardiff, where it was accidentally (of course) discovered and exhumed, and exhibited about the country as a prehistoric figure. The imposition was so clever that many scientific men were deceived by it.—Chicago Herald.

Col. Clark S. Edwards, of Bethel, while in the army during the rebellion, wrote home to his wife 457 letters, which she saved, and most of them are in existence now. They give a very good history of the war.—Portland (Me.) Argus.

OLD AND NEW DIRECTORS MEET.

John Allin Re-elected President—Salaries Raised—Company B's Opening—Brevities and Personal Mention.

A regular meeting of the retiring board of directors of the Pasadena Lake Vineyard Land and Water Company was held Monday evening, all the members being present, President Allin in the chair.

The minutes of the last previous meeting were read and approved. The secretary submitted his monthly financial statement, which was ordered filed.

The report was read of the returning board showing the result of the re-recent annual election that resulted in the reëlection of the old board with the exception of Mr. Royce, who was chosen to succeed Mr. Meharry. The report was received and placed on file.

C. M. Simpson of the Auditing Committee, reported that the financial statement presented at the annual meeting by Secretary Habbick was found to be correct. The report spoke in the highest terms of the zeal, efficiency and integrity of the present secretary and collector in the discharge of their official duties, and stated that in the minds of the committee these services are not adequately compensated. It was recommended that the salary of the secretary be increased to at least $100 per month and that of the collector to $75 per month. The close of the report read: "We feel like congratulating the stockholders of the company upon the manner in which the business of the corporation has been managed by its board of directors for the past year. The indebtedness has been very largely decreased, while at the same time a decrease in the rate to the consumers has been made and the whole business of the company has been so prudently and economically administered that we take pleasure in indorsing their action in all matters therewith." The report is signed by Oscar Freeman, C. A. Rhodes and C. M. Simpson.

On motion the secretary was instructed to have his annual report and financial statement and the auditor's report printed in pamphlet form and distributed to the stockholders as far as possible.

Director Clark, in behalf of the Executive Committee, reported the purchase of 600 feet of four-inch pipe to connect the Raymond-avenue main with that on Colorado street.

Mrs. Kiel was granted permission to make a one and a quarter-inch connection with the main, corner of Lake avenue and Illinois street.

On motion the Auditing Committee was allowed $10 each for their services, and the returning board $9 each.

Bills to the amount of $148.50 were ordered paid.

On motion the secretary was instructed to enter upon the record of the meeting a resolution expressing the loss the board sustains in the death of the late efficient engineer of the company, Col. James E. Place, and that a copy of the action be transmitted to Mrs. Place. The board then adjourned.

The newly-elected directors then went into session. Mr. Parker was chosen temporary chairman. The first order of business was to elect a president. John Allin was reëlected to this position, he receiving 6 votes to 1 cast for Mr. Parker. All the other officers of the company were reëlected.

The salaries of the secretary and collector were raised to $85 a month, and that of the inspector to $80. Some of Mr. Habbick's friends were heard to express themselves to the effect that his salary might better have been increased in accordance with the recommendation of the committee, arguing that his office work deserves a larger compensation than does the work of the inspector.

The former Executive and Auditing committees were reappointed. Directors Clark and Parker were appointed a committee to act with another from the Pasadena Land and Water Company in the matter of an irrigation district, to see that the rights of stockholders are protected. The president is also one of the committee, ex-officio.

Mr. McCormick addressed the board stating that he was ready to give a clear title to the property embraced in the contract between the water company and Messrs. Williams and Goss, and inquired how soon the work of opening up Waldo street will be entered upon. The Executive Committee was instructed to prepare specifications and advertise for bids necessary to make the proposed extension on Waldo street and also for filling up reservoir No. 3.

The secretary's financial statement for the month of January embraces the following figures:

Balance on hand	$ 488 33
Receipts	1582 78
Total	$2071 11
Disbursements—
Office expenses	$ 175 05
Reservoir No. 1 account	75 25

COMPANY B.

How the New Quarters Were Opened.

The formal opening of Company B's new quarters in the Morgan Block passed off very pleasantly Monday evening. There was a large attendance. The Company was first inspected by Capt. William G. Schrieber of Company A, Los Angeles.

A guard mount followed in front of the hall. Capt. Schrieber acted as officer of the day, Capt. Hamilton as acting adjutant, First Lieut. Cambell as senior officer in command of the guard, Second Lieut. Bangham as junior officer of the guard, and Sergt. Buchanan as acting sergeant-major.

The visiting officers were afterwards entertained by the commissioned and non-commissioned officers of the company. They were: Capt. Schreiber, Capt. Starn of Company C, Los Angeles, Lieut. Myers of the same company, and Lieut. Howland of Company D, Ninth Regiment, Pomona. Capt. Schrieber and Lieut Howland spent the night in town, the guests of Lieut. Cambell and Sergt. Permar.

The Catholic Fair.

The opening of the Catholic Fair in Williams' Hall last night was a decided success. The hall was beautifully decorated and presented a beautiful appearance.

The booths are presided over by the following ladies: Ice cream, Miss Clinch, Misses Aggie and Nellie Fuschia; postoffice, Miss Lillie Fuschia; fancy booth, Misses Reynolds and Wheaton; second fancy booth on left side, Mrs. Murphy and daughter; lemonade booth, F. F. McGarry, Charles Clinch, Cal Walker; fancy booth on right, Mrs. Tierman, Miss Connell. The opening address was made by R. M. Furlong. There was rendered the programme already printed in these columns.

BREVITIES.

Lent begins a week from today.

The snow has disappeared from the near range.

The influx of eastern tourists continues large.

Yesterday's overland was reported six hours late.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hopkins were in town yesterday.

Mrs. Bangs is expected home from the North today.

Collectors are busy making their monthly rounds.

Valentines are on the market and meeting with a ready sale.

There were a number of new arrivals at the Raymond yesterday.

Merchants generally report business better now than for some time past.

Prof. Kyle is somewhat under the weather, suffering from a sore throat.

Progressive hearts was the amusement at the Raymond yesterday evening.

Monday's overland drifted in between 7 and 8 o'clock yesterday morning.

The Catholic Fair opened auspiciously yesterday evening in Williams's hall.

A regular monthly meeting of the Pickwick Club was held yesterday evening.

Passenger Agent Wincup of the Cross road was among yesterday's visitors to town.

There will be some interesting tennis matches played on the club court tomorrow.

All signs of rain have disappeared. The indications now point to another spell of clear weather.

M. E. Wood was noticed on the streets yesterday for the first time after a somewhat protracted illness.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the Congregational church will give an orange social on Friday evening.

A meeting of fruit-growers will be held at the Board of Trade rooms at 4 o'clock this afternoon. A large attendance is requested.

A meeting of the Athletic Club will be held Thursday evening. Thirty-nine new names have been posted for admission as members.

Mr. Buchanan reports that the poor woman, a native of California, whom the Charity Society has been looking after, is now comfortably provided for.

The Salvation Army is arranging for a grand blow-out to take place about the middle of the month. Prominent salvationists from foreign parts will be here.

The concert given at the Raymond Monday evening by Prof. Stahl on the zither and an instrument of the performer's own invention was much enjoyed by the many present.

The Hotel Green is all right. There are nearly half a hundred people now quartered in the handsomely fitted up house to say nothing of the numerous transient guests who are daily entertained there. Let the addition be forthcoming.

Both railroads now charge 10 cents for a single fare from Pasadena to the Raymond. In view of the fact that one can be transported between the same points by street-car for 5 cents and that only 20 cents is charged for a single fare to Los Angeles it goes without saying that the local rate is too high.

An Interesting Law-suit—Extraordinary Fishing—General News.

SANTA MONICA, Feb. 2.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] The long-looked-for rain came at last, and while it was of shorter duration and not as copious as desired, yet all are truly grateful for small favors.

The fire boys are earnestly hoping that the Trustees will purchase the Pasadena outfit which has been offered for sale to the city fathers.

The young people enjoyed a dance at the Arcadia Friday evening.

J. C. Hemingway, press correspondent here, has established headquarters at the real estate office of Boyce & Cuddy, where any items will be received.

Henry & Parker's crew have been enjoying extraordinary luck the past week securing over five tons of fish, and beauties at that. On Thursday they secured 1800 pounds, Friday 6400 and Saturday 1800 more. This is a record never before equaled on the coast.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Palmer of Sioux City are spending a few days here.

Mrs. Frémont and family have taken possession of the Kimball cottage on Ocean avenue, where they will spend the winter months.

The Misses Lizzie Carr and Annie Abbott, who have been enjoying the past month here, returned home yesterday.

L. C. Tebbetts of Riverside, whose house was burned some time ago, is about to commence suit against the tenant, Mr. Smith, of Nationalistic fame, alleging that Smith used a stove for which he paid $1, attaching a coal oil can to the same and converting it thereby into a very poor and unsafe apology for an oil stove. The faucet was also a very unsafe one, and he had been warned repeatedly about it. Mr. Tebbetts claims the fire was caused by the stove, and as he lost the house by reason of it he brings suit for $600, claiming gross negligence on the part of the tenant. It will undoubtedly prove to be a very interesting suit, in which the California law on landlord and tenant will be elucidated by counsel on both sides and will prove to be a very stubborn contest, as both parties are well-to-do and will carry it up to the higher courts.

The Misses Lizzie Carr and Annie Abbott gave a very interesting outing party in the cañon last week, which they called a watercress party. It proved very interesting and enjoyable.

The Chapin stock was sold in Los Angeles today, and the Tierney goods will be disposed of on Wednesday.

Home Rule for Cities.

[San Francisco Examiner.]

Finally, why should the Legislature meddle with the matter at all, except to undo its own foolish interference of the past? The people of Oakland, San Francisco, San José, Los Angeles and other towns want electric roads. Why should not they be allowed to have them? Let us have a little home rule.

What a curiosity a newspaper would be that was edited by the people who are always growling about the papers.—[Columbus Dispatch.

Hon. William H. Mills, manager of the land department of the Southern Pacific and president of the San Francisco Board of Trade, reached this city yesterday morning in his private car. Mr. Mills is accompanied by Mrs. Mills, Misses Della and Bessie Mills, and Mrs. Judge John Hunt and Miss Florence Doyne. Mr. Mills's private secretary, Mr. Perkins, also accompanies him.

Mr. Mills is down here on account of Miss Mills's health. The young lady is just getting over a severe attack of pneumonia, and the physician recommended Southern California. Mr. Mills will locate the party here and will then return to San Francisco. They spent the day driving over the city, and went out to Ontario last evening.

Mr. Mills was seen at the Arcade depot by a TIMES representative. This is the first time that he has been in Los Angeles since 1887, and he is more than surprised to see the improvements that have taken place during his absence.

"I have been led to believe," said the gentleman, "that all improvements came to a standstill when the bottom dropped out of the boom shortly after I was here, but I find the city in a better condition than even the most sanguine boomer ever looked forward to. The average boom generally leaves a place in a dilapidated condition for some time to come, but Los Angeles must have recovered almost immediately, for I see no signs to anything but prosperity.

"Regarding railroad business, I have but little to say other than that we are prosperous, and I believe all the roads on the coast are in the same condition. I think there will be some big improvements in the railroads of this coast during the next ten years. People are flocking here in a steady stream from the East, and a great increase in population creates a demand for more roads. There is still room for millions on this coast and they are bound to come, for we have everything within the gift of nature that tends to draw people together."

Mr. Mills and party will spend the rest of the week visiting the various points of interest in Southern California, and Saturday he will return to this city to be present at a reception that will be tendered him by the Chamber of Commerce.

MAGNATES IN TROUBLE.

Night before last President Manvel of the Santa Fé and party, including several directors and General Manager Wade, visited Redondo and enjoyed a banquet at the big hotel. The banquet did not break up until a late hour, as Dan Freeman managed the affair, and when it did, several of the party and one of the invited guests got it into their heads that the proper hour to go a-fishing on the pier had arrived. Whether the wine or some of the wonderful stories told by Mr. Freeman put this idea in their heads is not known, but the fact remains that they left the hotel shortly after 1 o'clock without the knowledge of the proprietors of the hotel or any of the guests.

Nothing more was heard from the lone fishermen until 3 o'clock yesterday morning when the bold fishermen were caught by the night watchman entering a window to the dining-room where silverware and other valuable things are supposed to be stored. Their trouble come about in this way: The watchman does not go on duty until 4 o'clock, and he was not informed when the hotel was closed that some of the hotel guests were out fishing for whales and things, and if he heard them trying to get in at the main entrance he paid no attention to them, so when they found that they could not enter in the regulation way, they started on a cruise around the hotel looking for an open window. They found it as above stated, and were just crawling in when the watchman pounced down on them and was about to place the whole crowd under arrest. He is not in the habit of associating with railroad magnates, and he cannot be blamed for imagining that he had captured a nest of burglars.

After considerable trouble matters were explained and the great railroad managers were permitted to seek their couches. Everything was done yesterday morning to hush the matter up, but a wide awake "peanut butcher" got hold of it, and the story was circulated quite effectually in railroad circles yesterday.

NOTES.

The Santa Fé overland was reported ten hours late yesterday afternoon. All other trains are on time.

The Southern Pacific had completed three and one-half miles of the branch road from Ontario to Chino night before last.

The Southern Pacific is laying about two miles of steel rail this side of the Palms on the Santa Monica branch. The whole line will soon be of steel rail.

George M. Pullman, president of the Pullman Palace Car Company, who has been at Coronado with his family, came up yesterday and went north on No. 20 last night.

Theodore Z. Hardee, chief clerk in the Union Pacific's local office, who was let out on the 18th inst., has secured a fine position with Messrs. Silent & Co. Mr. Hardee is a competent young man, and is quite popular among railroad men.

President Manvel, General Manager K. H. Wade and party came up from Redondo yesterday morning, and in the afternoon they went out to Pasadena. They spent last night at San Bernardino and will go to Chino and Pomona today. Mr. Manvel is contemplating building from Pomona to Chino.

Old Fashioned Watch Chains.

Among the presents showered on blushing brides this season figures the old fashioned watch chain, more than a yard long. After many years of suspending watches from chatelaines, from short chains hanging from a brooch and from ribbons secured by monograms; after wearing them in breast pockets or tucked into the bosoms of dresses with short chain pendants; after carrying them in leathern straps or slipped into the clasp of a bag or using them as decorations for the handles of parasols and umbrellas, card cases and portemonnaies, as clasps for bracelets or concealed beneath a miniature in a brooch or behind the heart of a floral pin—fashion has gone back to the ancient style of chain thrown around the neck that our mothers and grandmothers affected.

The new chains are very fine and generally are divided at intervals of three or four inches by pearls, turquoises or garnets, strung like beads, or by small diamonds, rubies, sapphires or moonstones, set clear. As for the watch, it is hidden in the folds of the dress or carried in a side pocket. It is small in size, and the back should be encircled or entirely incrusted with gems similar to those on the chain.—Paris Cor. Jewelers' Weekly.

A Co-operative Farm.

S. A. Fetler, of Alabama, says: A colony of about twenty-five families from the north, for the most part farmers, have recently secured about 3,000 acres of choice farm land in Cullman county, Ala., on which to locate a co-operative farm. It is to be organized as a joint stock company, with a capital stock of $200,000, limited to 200 shares of $1,000 each. No person can purchase, own or control more or less than one share of the capital stock. The labor is to be performed by themselves and their families at stipulated wages, the profits to be distributed as dividends. They propose to introduce manufactures as soon as practicable, as they possess a tract of valuable timber as well as an inexhaustible supply of coal. This county is the only farming territory in any of the southern states in which there are no negroes.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Killed a Mountain Lion With His Knife.

H. Woods went out to Bullock's ranch recently, and from there took a hunting trip into the mountains the next day with his shotgun to bring down some small game. He had not been out long when he heard a peculiar noise in the underbrush, and, after some scouting around, a large-sized mountain lioness showed up. He had only small shot in his shells, but as soon as she came in reach he let loose, and she took the contents in her body and dashed up the mountain.

Woods, thinking that she had a mate, located himself on a rock where he could see into the canyon, and, true enough, in a few moments the lion appeared, and a monster at that, as large apparently as John Robinson's biggest circus lion, and he came directly to the spot where Woods was secreted, and when within a few feet he got the contents of the gun in the region of the heart. The lion rolled down the side of the canyon a short distance, regained his feet, and made up an arroyo.

Woods followed him up and soon came within hearing of the lioness, which was howling frightfully, and all of a sudden it emerged from a thicket and dashed at him, with eyes glaring and mouth wide open. He emptied the contents of his shotgun into its mouth, which dazed it for a moment. Instantly he jerked out his sheath knife and as he did so the lioness sprang for him, but only to receive the blade of the knife into its heart, and the fierce animal lay dead at Mr. Woods' feet as the trophy of his hunt. He did not want any more lioness, but made his way back to Bullock's ranch, but not until he had taken the hide of his lion, which is now on exhibition.—Tucson Star.

Murphy's Long Leap for Life.

John Murphy, a harness maker of Cleveland, sat up with a sick friend at Rocky river and started to walk home next morning on the Nickel Plate track. While crossing the bridge over Rocky river, which is ninety-two feet above the water, he was overtaken by a passenger train. He shouted to the engineer and started to run, but it was too late. The shriek of the whistle, the roar of the train and the trembling of the bridge caused Murphy to become panic-stricken, so that instead of lying down on the outer timbers, as he might have done with perfect safety, he leaped from the bridge into the chasm below.

The passengers on the train and three or four persons in the vicinity saw Murphy turn over several times in his awful fall and strike the water, which is only six feet deep at this point, and supposed he was killed. The keeper of the boat-house, a short distance below, pulled rapidly to the spot, found Murphy still struggling and hauled him into the boat. He vomited freely, but quickly recovered, and on the arrival of a physician it was found that, although badly shaken up and bruised, he had sustained no serious injury.—Cor. Chicago Herald.

About Folding Election Ballots.

If those distinguished New Yorkers really couldn't fold their ballots according to the method prescribed by the new law they may console themselves by the thought that the greatest minds are often puzzled by trifles. Newton, who enunciated the laws of nature, cut a large hole in his study door for his cat and a small one for her kittens. Chauncey M. Depew and Abram S. Hewitt can direct great public interests, but cannot fold a little piece of paper. Such is genius.

As to a Brooklyn gentleman, who bears the euphonious title of doctor of pedagogy, but could not, after repeated attempts, succeed in folding the ballots to the satisfaction of the inspectors, his failure may perhaps have been due to the fact that he took his learned degree into the polling place and got tangled up in its intricacies.—Munsey's Weekly.

Sending Panoramas Abroad.

A product purely American and probably in the nature of a revelation to the heathen peoples of England and France, to whom Steamship Agent Low has just consigned it, reached here all the way from Minneapolis a day or two ago by water. It was a panorama, and as it was fifty-four feet long it had to be tarpaulined and bolted to the deck of the steamship Lydian Monarch, as there was no room for it in the hold. A single freight shipment fifty-four feet long is not to be sneezed at, even if it is only five feet and a half square in the other two dimensions, and this particular big roll of canvas weighed all of three tons. The manufacture of panoramas for the European market is a novel industry of recent origin. These canvas pictures are not shown over here at all.—New York Letter.

Electric Oil Well Drills.

A patent has been granted for an electrical drill for oil wells. The device consists of a series of motors in tandem, connected in such a way as to make one motor. The design has been to get the power within a six inch diameter, so that the entire mechanism, which much resembles a common boiler, can be lowered in the well, and the power can be applied at the bottom. The drill bits are firmly fastened on the rod, which is worked rapidly in and out of a cylinder, after the manner of a piston rod.—New York Telegram.

Women Lasso a Vicious Deer.

R. G. Lanham, a farmer, was attacked on his farm near Sherman by a large buck deer, which escaped from the Batsell park, and gored very badly. Lanham's wife and daughter came to the rescue, lariated the animal and tied it to a tree. This is the second man this pet has nearly killed with his immense antlers.—Fort Worth (Tex.) Gazette.

When Jean Coquelin, the only son of the great actor, made his recent debut on the classic boards of the Comedie Francaise the father is said to have been much more overcome by stage fright than the son was. The house was crowded, and the young actor was enthusiastically applauded.

Twenty-five thousand salmon about six months old will be put into the Hudson river about five miles below Fort Edward. Heretofore the salmon have been planted in Adirondack streams, and it is believed that better results will be reached by placing the young fish further south.

A Summer Story.

A queer thing happened at the County Jail a few days since that has just come to light. It seems that a man was arrested for vagrancy who was so thin that he could crawl out between the bars and it was found necessary to place a watch over him to prevent his escape. The watchman placed in charge was a lazy fellow and set his wits to work to devise some means to keep his prisoner safely without the necessity of watching him all the time. There were no shackles small enough to hold him, and the only way to accomplish the desired end was to fatten up the vagrant and that pretty quick. The watchman consulted physicians as to the best feed for the thin man and was universally advised to give him Quaker Rolled White Oats. Inside of three days the prisoner could not squeeze out and before he had finished his sentence he was under correspondence with all the prominent dime museums in the country with a view to being placed on exhibition as the fattest fat man in the country.

CATARRH.

Catarrh is often regarded by the patient as a cold in the head, and he often expresses his astonishment at his remarkable tendency to contract a fresh cold. Indeed, he declares he is scarcely free from one cold before he takes another; and he is always exceedingly careful. It is also a matter of surprise to him that the cold always seems to settle in the head or throat.

At times many of the symptoms of Catarrh may seem to abate, and the patient is led to hope that the disease is about to wear off; but another class of symptoms soon appear, and he learns to his horror that instead of recovery from the disease it is somewhat changed in its character and has extended to the throat. A sense of weariness is sometimes felt in reading, speaking or singing, hoarseness at times occurs, a separation of dryness is sometimes felt in the throat, or it appears that some foreign substance, as, for instance, a hair obstructed the throat; there becomes a sense of languor and fatigue, the breath lessens upon a little exertion, a short, hacking cough, a peculiar sound in clearing the throat, a feeling as though there was not room enough in the chest to breathe; these and other symptoms occur after the disease has made considerable progress. Then it is a time when consumption is about to begin its dreadful work. Up to this point the progress of the disease may have been slow, and the patient may, in expressing his confident hope that it will "wear off," declare that he has had the catarrh for years and has not seemed to become much worse, and trusts he will "do and do" recover. But this delusion is the grand error which has peopled our cemeteries with consumptive forms as all forms of catarrh end finally in consumption.

The Aerean system of practice is applicable in all diseases of the respiratory organs, but the remedies must be prepared for each individual case as it requires.
